Farm Machinery Must Be Used

Information from the farm sign-up for 1943 production already is being used to work out a solution to one important production problem—farm machinery reports. Albert Girod, chairman of the Oregon USDA war board's machinery committee.

The amount and type of additional farm machinery needed to meet production goals as reported by farmers contacted during the mobilization drive, are being tabulated and forwarded to the Food Production administration in Washington. This information will be used to determine what kind of farm equipment will be manufactured from the additional steel recently allocated by the War Production board, and will provide a basis for the 1944 farm machinery program now being shaped, Girod said.

Farmers also reported serviceable machinery on hand which would not be used by the owner this year, and any equipment available for rental or contract use.

County war boards and machinery rationing committees are using this information to locate sharing arrangements and to assist farmers needing additional equipment to locate used machinery.

While there has been some improvement in the new farm machinery situation, care, share and repair still is the slogan for every farm operator," Girod said. "Meeting production goals will require full use of all existing equipment. Every machine that stands idle this season is really working for Hitler."

HI-WAYS TO HEALTH

Every home maker knows that food is a weapon of war—that our fighting men and our allies must have food just as flying Fortresses must have bombs. Every week we are sending shiploads of canned goods—we at home will share all that is left. New ways of managing the limited foods are in prospect and, as a starter toward getting money's worth and coupons worth of point rationed foods, here are a few tips from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Keep in mind the nutrition yardstick and make point rationed foods fit into the planning of balanced meals. Don't duplicate what you can buy fresh. What you eat fresh takes the pressure off processed foods. Choose the size of can most economical for your use. Here is a table of equivalents that you may want to keep in your kitchen:

Average Size	Cups	Servings
1 lb. (No. 1 tall)	2	3 to 4
1 lb. 4 oz. (No. 2)	2 1/2	4 to 5
1 lb. 12 oz. (No. 2 1/2)	3 1/2	5 to 7

DEPENDABILITY

In these times more than usual it is important to have a dependable grocer. In wartime prices and quality and even quantities are subject to change.

Quality here will be good, prices will be fair and quantities what is allowed.

JUICE CANS

12 1/2 fluid ozs.	1 1/2 cups
1 pt., 24 oz.	2 1/2 cups
1 qt., 48 oz.	5 cups
1 qt., 32 oz.	4 cups
1 qt., 14 fl. oz.	5 3/4 cups

In place of canned soups which require six points for each can, try making your own—for example a cream of potato or a cream of mixed vegetable soup—a grand way for using left over cooked vegetables; fish chowders; onion soup. All are flavor-some and nutritious. This potato soup will furnish part of the recommended quart of milk daily for children and pint for adults, and won't require a coupon from your ration book.

POTATO SOUP

4 cups mashed potatoes
6 cups milk

2 eggs, separated
1 tbsp butter
1-2 tsp celery salt
1 tsp salt
Heat milk in double boiler. Mix potatoes, egg yolks, butter, celery salt and salt and add to hot milk; heat thoroughly. Serve in bouillon cups, topping each serving with beaten egg white and a dash of cinnamon. Serves 8.

"Your electric bills are lower because Bill Lackaff is working for you down in Bend!"

One of a series of twelve advertisements about the men who manage PP&L business in Oregon and Washington

● No matter where you live within the PP&L system, this man has something to do with keeping you supplied with low-cost electricity. While he's known as our Bend District Manager, this doesn't begin to describe his job.

You might say he works for the whole Pacific Northwest—and that's exactly right. He's one of our team of 815 men and women that make up PP&L's experienced organization. It's the work they do together—that keeps the service running smoothly in every part of the system.

The big value of this system teamwork is pretty clear when you realize that PP&L supplies residential service at rates 43% below the national average, and at the same time shoulders a tax load of more than $1,150,000 a year.

The beautiful pine forests of the Deschutes country are supplying millions of feet of urgently needed lumber for Uncle Sam. But, at the same time, this district knows the stability that comes from diversification of products, and is constantly developing its rich farm and range lands. In the same way, the much more widely diversified activities of all 12 PP&L operating districts make for a strong, dependable electric system. Because PP&L serves a complete cross-section of the great Columbia Basin, users all over the system have their electric service protected against local adversities. Through the years they have found the benefits of business-managed system operation consistently reflected in lower and lower rates.
