Farm Costs May Catch Up With Income

A current trend indicating that farm cost increases may overtake the rise in prices for farm products, and become depressing in the long run as was the case in World War I, is shown in information assembled on trends in cost factors affecting agriculture by the Oregon Agricultural extension service.

Some of the current situations considered most significant by I. R. Brethaupt, extension economist, are shown by government index numbers. Whereas the index of prices received by farmers advanced one point in the country as a whole from mid-May to mid-July, the index of prices paid for commodities bought by farmers advanced two points. Farm wage rates advanced very sharply during this period.

With regard to land values and taxes, current information from the USDA also indicate an outlook for higher relative costs of farming. The index of taxes per acre in Oregon advanced to 185 percent of the 1909-1913 level from 1941 to 1942, up 16 points. Taxes per acre would have to go materially higher, however, to reach the high levels following World War I, when the index jumped from 92 in 1910 to 251 in 1920 in Oregon.

On the basis of taxes per $100 of value, there was little change in Oregon from 1941 to 1942, owing to increase in the assessed value placed on farm real estate. Farm real estate values have been moving upward in Oregon and the United States as a whole, much as during the same period of the pre-World War I period. July 1, 1943, farm real estate values in the United States reached the pre-World War I level for the first time since 1931.

Compared with a year ago, farm real estate values in the country as a whole are up 11 percent. Compared with 1920, during the great land boom, the index of farm real estate values now is 49 points lower.

From January 1, 1942 to January 1, 1943, Oregon farmers paid off 5 percent of the farm mortgage debt, and reduced the total to 96.1 million dollars. That is not quite as good as the average for the entire United States and considerably less than the record made by farmers in Washington and Idaho.

World War I brought a sharp increase in farm mortgage debts in Oregon and in the country as a whole. Oregon's farm mortgage debt increased from approximately 60 million dollars at the start of World War I to approximately 133 million dollars in 1923. The present farm mortgage debt in Oregon is much less than at the peak in 1923 when it reached 137.3 million dollars.

HI-WAYS TO HEALTH by ADA R. MAYNE OREGON DAIRY COUNCIL

In many households these days more meals are needed and extra lunches are being packed, due to changed work schedules. This is where the homemaker has an important part in the defense program.

Of all the meals in the day, lunch is the homemaker's biggest problem. And right now it offers more worries than usual, for lunchtime can be practically any time. Night shifts are responsible for drastic meal-time shifts in many households. Lunches, eaten at home with part of the family absent, or packed to be eaten on the job, are easily slighted in kind and amount of food. If lunch is slighted, the total day's meals usually fail to meet the measurements of the daily meal guide.

Because sandwiches are easily packed, they form the basis of the carried lunch. Sandwiches can do an amazing lot toward getting some of those Basic Seven Foods into the diet. Bread adds at least two; enriched or whole grain flour and some milk. Special breads with egg or raisins or dates or prunes add at least two more.

Such a filling as chopped carrots and cottage cheese add two more. Obviously a sandwich or two doesn't add all of these individual needs. But it does add them, and good nutrition is the result of adding a little here and a little there until the sum total makes enough of all the Basic Seven Foods.

Lunches don't have to be made of just sandwiches. Put in raw vegetables like carrot or turnip strips or celery and a hot or cold drink in a thermos bottle. Milk is the best choice for the thermos—it's equally at home on a construction job or in an office. Include cooked fruits or vegetables, as is, or in salad combinations and pack them in tightly covered containers. The victory garden's vegetables or flavorful jam can be blended with cottage cheese and salad dressing to make meat-saving, budget-stretching fillings for sandwiches. Here are some suggestions:

1 cup cottage cheese, 1-2 cup chopped tomato, 1-4 cup chopped cucumber, 1-4 cup chopped green pepper, 1tbl. chopped onion, 1 tsp salt, shredded lettuce.

COPPER WIRE AVAILABLE
Materials to put electric power to work in the food production program are being made available to Oregon farmers, reports R. B. Taylor, chairman of the State USDA War board. More than 5,000 pounds of copper wire have been allocated to farmers since July 15 by county war boards. A similar amount is available to take care of essential farm needs through September.

THE 3rd WAR LOAN DRIVE STARTS

-TO BACK THE INVASION!

What you will be asked to do -

MARK well the date—Thursday, September 9th. For on that day, you must answer to your country's call.

On that day, the 3rd War Loan Drive opens. You will be asked to back our fighting forces to the very limit of your resources. You will be asked to go ALL-OUT FOR INVASION by investing in EXTRA War Bonds—more War Bonds than you perhaps think you can possibly afford.

To meet the national quota, every individual in the country who earns a wage or draws an income or has accumulated funds must invest, if he possibly can, in at least one EXTRA $100 War Bond. Those who can, must invest in more bonds—hundreds and thousands of dollars' worth more.

Scrape up the money from every source you can... turn in all the loose cash you carry with you... dig out what you had tucked away "just in case." Go without pleasures, luxuries, even necessities this September. And give our fighting men the things they need to fight with—and win.

These men are throwing everything they have into this fierce invasion push. They are giving their blood, their lives. No one can put a price on such courage, self-sacrifice, devotion. But you can show you're with them to the limit! You can say it with Bonds... EXTRA Bonds this month.
