HI-WAYS TO HEALTH by ADA R. MAYNE OREGON DAIRY COUNCIL

In the hands of a clever packer, the carried lunch is an opportunity to improve eating habits where words have failed. Each packed lunch should follow a sound nutrition pattern but without monotony for there are endless ways to bring in changes. Make lunch-packing an interesting project, not just another job to be checked off. Let those who carry the lunches make suggestions about their contents and when possible help pack them.

There are patterns to suit every taste - the main thing is to have one and form the habit of checking the lunches you prepare against it. If you have had a vacation from lunch packing during the summer and now once again must plan for that important business of sending the children back to school, here is a lunch pattern to jog your memory. MILK - as is, in hot or chilled drinks or soup, custard or pudding. OR cheese equivalent. SANDWICHES - make them count for health by choosing nutritious fillings and using whole-wheat or enriched flour breads.

VEGETABLES - to be eaten raw, in sandwich fillings or in salads. FRUIT or DESSERT - if fruit is not included there should be a dessert which is more than merely "something sweet". It should also contribute to good nutrition. Desserts can be varied. Custard, date bars, fruit, molasses or oatmeal cookies, cupcakes - are all possibilities for the packed lunch. In tune with the present basic foods are these: Spiced Prune Cookies. Enriched flour, molasses, eggs, prunes, and butter are all members of the famous Basic

SPICED PRUNE COOKIES
1-2 cup butter 3-4 tsp soda
3-4 cup br. sugar 1 tsp salt
1 egg 1-2 tsp ginger
1-2 cup molasses 1-2 tsp cinnamon
2 1-2 cups sifted enriched flour
2 tsp baking powder
2 cups chopped cooked prunes

Cream together butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg and mix well. Add molasses. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, ginger and cinnamon. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture and mix thoroughly. Add prunes. Drop by teaspoonfuls on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in moderately hot oven (400-degrees) 10 minutes. Yield: About 10 dozen 1-1/2 inch cookies.
