ABOUT 4-H CLUB LIVESTOCK SALES

Livestock produced and sold under the auspices of 4-H clubs is governed by the meat rationing regulation the same as other livestock, according to OPA. This means that the only person who may obtain custom slaughtered meat point free are livestock producers. However, OPA permits such recognized boys' and girls' farm organizations as 4-H clubs to sell their livestock at a fair exhibition, or an annual show at premium prices, as money from such sales usually helps provide educational funds for club members.

More Clothing To Be Made This Winter

Dressing well in wartime won't be quite as much of a problem this fall and winter as last, thanks to some orders from WPB, states Lucy Lane, clothing and textiles specialist at OSC.

Several million woolen and woollen garments and blankets will be released to civilians this winter as a result of a program arrived at by WPB and the war department—that is, reducing by 50 percent army procurements of some of the principal worsted and woolen products during the last four months of this year.

Some slide fasteners will also be made due to a recent WPB order which permits the resumption of their manufacture from distress stocks of carbon steel.

Moreover, women's and girls' children's and toddler's fall and winter dresses and suits, coats blouses and other outer clothing will cost no more than last fall, and in some cases, less. This is in accordance with an OPA order.

There'll be more shoes for civilians, too. WPB has permitted a 25 percent increase in output of shoes for boys, misses and children and infants as well as greater production of men's work shoes. WPB is also following tests made by the National Bureau of Standards on two sole treatment oil compounds designed to lengthen wearing quality of shoes.

Epping that the while family can It's the flavor of the food that is est. the secret of its success. It's the flavor one always remembers—6 makes dishes of quality—makes meals tempting—makes limited foods more palatable. And no other fat gives the special flavor of butter nor adds as much appeal to other foods. In using your ration of butter, reserve it to use where your family will get the most benefit from its food flavor in making other foods appealing such as spreading bread and seasoning vegetables.

Butter has long been recognized as a rich source of energy and vitamin A, as well as an easily digestible food fat. In food value, other fats give the same energy and some are enriched with vitamin A, but recent studies have been shown that butterfat supplies some growth promoting factor other than vitamin A which is not found in vegetable fats. Also butter makes a greater contribution to the vitamin A content of the diet than do the fortified fats on the market.

It is important in point buying to plan in order that you can have some butter for each member of your family and then to make every bit of it count in your meal planning and preparation. Don't waste any of this precious food that contributes so much in the way of nutrition and growth promoting factors as well as food flavor.

Whole milk can help protect meals short in butter—a quart holds the equivalent of about three-tablespoons of butter and will help protect against possible

COME TO US FOR THE FACTS
In spite of the pros and cons on availability of new tractors for the farm, our fighting forces still require the bulk of mechanized production. However, Uncle Sam does not want to hamper home-front production of food.
If you must have a new tractor in order to carry on your work in the production of food, your chances are good to get a new tractor.
Come in and see us for the facts.

Prohibition

They're at it again in America, and even as in the days of World War I we may yet hear that America is Dry.

Most of us in the U.S. armed forces could not be classed as violently opposed to liquor control for most of us believe in moderation. On the other hand, there are a few of us who could be included in the group of Americans who felt "the noble experiment" was a huge success.

It is with alarm therefore that we learn of the growing political strength of the anti-liquor crowd in the United States.

Taking advantage of wartime conditions and restrictions the new prohibition group is working night and day for legislation which will give America prohibition in fact if not in name. Using the tactics of the Farm

Block, the anti-liquor crowd is tacking on amendments to practically every military appropriations measure in a desperate effort to secure prohibition or the nearest thing to it they can force through Congress.

Rationing is playing into their hands and gives them a good excuse, and no opportunity is missed to use this excuse in their effort to limit the production and distribution of liquor of all types.

We can remember the days of prohibition, when moonshine whiskey made quick fortunes for bootleggers, crooked politicians and dishonest police officials. As a result we claim we know what we want in the way of liquor legislation and feel those at home should wait until we return before initiating further legislation on liquor control.
