BUZZ SAWS

Pick a Good Location to set up the saw, as free as possible of ice, snow, mud and trash. Keep children and stock at a safe distance.

Use a Good, Sharp Saw which cuts without unnecessary pressure. Push wood into the saw evenly to avoid binding; turn a crooked limb or pole so that it rests on the table at the point of cutting. Don't swing wood over an unguarded saw.

Inspect Saw Blade Frequently for checks and cracks; make sure all belts, bearings, shafts and table supports are in good repair.

Use Guards for the saw, pulleys and belts, if they are provided; if not, install them wherever possible. If you have to build them yourself, make them substantial.

Wear Suitable Clothing, free from dangling projections which might catch in the blade, belt or wood. Wear leather or leather-faced gloves.

Keep Clear of Saw; stand to the side rather than directly in line with it. Keep your eyes on the blade and your body as far from the saw as possible. Never extend your hands across the face of the saw.

Store Saw Properly, protecting it with a securely fastened cover. Put it away where people or stock cannot get near it.

NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL

HORSES and MULES

Handling at Work

Teach horses and mules to obey the command "whoa" instantly; never use the command unless you mean it.

Develop a definite system for hitching and unhitching horses and mules—and follow it. They will know what to expect, and there's less danger you'll forget to finish the job.

Use only strong harnesses. Keep them in good repair. Clean harnesses with warm water and mild soap; oil them regularly. They'll remain stronger; last longer. Dry leather has lower tensile strength.

Never leave a team standing unattended without securely tying it. The extra few minutes spent tying the team may keep someone out of a hospital. Never tie a team to a fence, windmill, or machinery with which it may become entangled.

Don't hitch your horses to weak equipment. Be particularly careful that neck yokes, singletrees, doubletrees and eveners are strong and securely fastened.

When driving, never wrap or tie the lines around your body or around your wrists. Failure to remember this caution may result in your being dragged and badly injured.

Don't permit flies to torment your horses and make them unmanageable. Use flynets, or muslin horse covers, and nose guards to protect work animals in fly time.

NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL

The Sherman County Journal normally has no comic section. In the absence of one, the above information direct from the Executive Office of the President, seems to make an admirable substitute. Farmers who have kept their fingers out of buzz saws and their legs from horses heels will find this advice from the city appropriate, especially in view of the paper shortage.

CIVILIAN MEAT SUPPLY
About two-thirds (67 percent) of the United States supplies of meat available for all needs in 1944 has been allocated to U. S. civilians, according to the War Food Administration. This allocation will allow about the same per capita civilian meat consumption in 1944 as in 1943. On a dressed weight basis, it is equivalent to approximately 132 lbs per capita for the year compared with the pre-war 1936-39 average of about 126 pounds.

PORK AND BEANS RELEASED
About 440,000 cases (approximately 20 million pounds of canned pork and beans) will be released to civilian consumers within the next few weeks.

Mr and Mrs John Beuther and son, John Jr., went to The Dalles Tuesday when John Jr. leaves for Spokane, Wash., and on to Farragut, Idaho, to begin his naval training.

Mrs A A Dunlap went to The Dalles Monday on business.

Mrs John Hays went to The Dalles Monday to visit her daughter, Mrs John Block, at the hospital.

Mr and Mrs Dell Olds were hosts at a dinner Thursday evening in honor of Roy Hogue, seaman 1-c, who is home on leave from Corpus Christi. Other guests included Mr and Mrs Wren Hogue, Miss Betty Olds of Moro and Clay

TIGHTENS RATIONING REGULATIONS

As a further move to stamp out the black market in gasoline, OPA has ruled that any local board or special hearing officer, after a proper hearing and a finding that the tire or gasoline regulations have been violated, may not only revoke a gasoline ration, but also may prohibit the use of gasoline in the violator's possession which was obtained as part of the ration.

PROTEIN IN PEAS

Every home maker likes to plan her dinner menu around a "main dish" and for this purpose dried legumes of one kind or another could be used more frequently. These vegetables, so typically American, are rich in protein. Although they can not entirely take the place of the protein of meat, fish, eggs, milk and cheese, they can serve as a valuable protein source in these war days. Most dried legumes—kidney beans, lima beans, lentils, peas, etc.—are similar in food value and any one of the varieties preferred may be chosen for the hearty dish of the main meal of the day.

Soybeans, less well known but more plentiful in general use, are in a class by themselves among the dried legumes. They are far superior as a source of protein. They also furnish much larger amounts of the B-vitamins but slightly less iron. And a bit of news for those watching the carbohydrate count, only about one-half the amount found in other dry beans. One thing to remember—for good results prepare soybeans and other soya products according to directions.

So make a note of this. Flumes can be made into hearty soups and appetizing main dishes and when combined with milk or cheese make dishes that measure up in both food value and appetite appeal.

SCALLOPED LIMA BEANS

2 cups dry lima beans
1 1-2 quarts water
1-2 cup diced salt pork
2 tbsp flour

Wash the beans well, and soak them overnight in water. Cook them until tender. Fry the diced salt pork slowly until crisp, remove the meat from the fat and add to the beans. Make a white sauce of the salt pork drippings, flour and milk. In a hot red casserole or baking dish, put a layer of cooked beans, some of the salt pork, cover with white sauce, and continue until all the ingredients are used. Salt to taste. Cover the top with buttered bread crumbs, and bake about twenty minutes in a moderate oven.
