NEAT CONCEIT

February—noted for its important birthdays—will have an added event this year with the birthday of ration tokens on February 27. The introduction of ration tokens to simplify food rationing programs for shoppers and dealers alike will be easy for Mrs. America. As a matter of fact, she will welcome tokens in change only when she makes a purchase of meats and fats or processed foods with her ration stamps. Tokens will not be distributed to any consumer in any way except as change for ration stamps purchases.

Prospects For Harvesting Equipment Good

Prospects for obtaining adequate amounts of harvesting machinery to handle Oregon's 1944 crops are greatly improved as a result of a supplementary program authorizing additional manufacture of 14 types of machinery. N. C. Donaldson, executive assistant for the state AAA committee, reported this week.

Scheduled for delivery during the second and third quarters of the year, the supplementary program on a national basis includes 5873 combines, 500 windrowers, 2570 potato diggers and pickers, 10,000 side delivery rakes, 3009 pick-up balers, 1000 potato sorters and graders and 1500 grain and forage blowers. All are in addition to the amounts being manufactured under the regular program, and are scheduled for delivery during the second and third quarters of the year.

Distribution of 80 percent of the additional machinery will be directed by manufacturers. No information has been received as to amounts that Oregon will receive, Donaldson said, although the state AAA committee has requested increased quotas for nearly all kinds of machines included in the supplementary list.

Safety Conditions Remain Static

Relative safety of driving and walking in Oregon traffic in 1943, as measured by the traffic death rate, was exactly the same as in 1942, Secretary of State, Bob Farrell said today, in releasing final figures on the state's death rate for the past year.

The rate was 9.1 persons killed per one hundred million miles of travel, exactly the same as in 1942. The death rate shows the number of persons killed in relation to travel, or the exposure to accident, and is therefore a more accurate barometer of safety in traffic.

The Oregon rate was slightly under the rate for the nation as a whole, which was placed at 11 persons killed per hundred million miles of travel, according to the National Safety Council.

WINS RENT SUIT

Because he was asked to pay $30 a month for a house on which the maximum rent ceiling was $11, Perry Wise of Portland was awarded damages by Judge Walter Tooze in the circuit court, amounting to $171, representing treble overcharges for three months. Under the law, Wise could file suit for $50 or three times the overcharge, whichever is greater.

From where I sit...
by Joe Marsh
Sure's a lot of talk going around nowadays about post-war planning... folks passing resolutions... statesmen holding conferences... governments making promises to each other.
But as Bert Childers says: "What good is all this drawing up of plans unless each one of us decides to make his corner of the world a better place to live in?"
From where I sit, Bert's put the problem in a nutshell. Governments can pass all the resolutions and make all the treaties they can think of—and it's still up to the people themselves to see to it that the world is ruled by tolerance and understanding. Unless we make up our minds to respect the other fellow's rights and liberties—whether it's the right to enjoy a glass of beer occasionally or the right to vote according to our conscience—all our post-war planning won't be worth the paper that it's printed on.
