His 6 feet, 8 inches often causes Pitcher Mike Naymick of the Cleveland Indians to be asked the question "How's the weather up there?" On an idle day Mike is trying to convince Pat Secrey, Tribe fielder, that it is the same as with 5 foot, 9 inch teammate.

FARM PRICES UP

Current developments in the farm real estate market show an increase of 16 per cent in land prices in the United States during the year ending March 1, 1944 up to a level 38 per cent above the 1935-1939 average. By states the increase ranges from 8 per cent above the average in North Dakota up to 70 per cent in Kentucky, with Oregon up 46 per cent, according to a survey by the U. S. bureau of agricultural economics.

An analysis of "warranted" land values in terms of probable net rentals during and after the war, published by the same agency, suggests the possibility that land prices may already be near or even above "warranted" values for agricultural purposes.

In figuring "warranted" land values the probable future income from the land is considered as well as current crop returns, explains L.R. Breithaupt, extension agricultural economist at OSC. Thus, instead of boosting land prices to the full extent indicated by current income, the normal value of the land under ordinary price conditions is used as a starting point and then only a fair share is added of the extra rent obtainable from the land because of war-made prices.

This is naturally a far more conservative method than to assume that the land will continue to return current high income for the next 20 years or more.

"A part of the present rise in land prices may be attributable to a lack of understanding about what farm products prices are to be supported after the war," Breithaupt cautions. "The two-year postwar price supports which are definitely authorized to date do not include a very great part of the numerous crop and animal industries of Oregon."

"Furthermore the 85 or 90 per cent of parity authorized for some crops may by that time be considerably less than present prices for such products."

FUEL RATIONING CHANGED

Next season's fuel rationing for heating stoves will be figured on a new basis, Charles B. Maxfield, district OPA fuel rationing representative, announced today, in order to cut down over-issuance and conserve critically short supplies of kerosene and stove oil.

Over-all ceilings for heating stove rations will be established under a calculation table, and local boards, in computing the ration, will be empowered to issue rations below the ceilings, according to the minimum needs in each case.

If the consumer finds he cannot get by, after making every possible effort to live within his ration, the board may revise its estimate and give him additional oil up to the ceiling figures, Maxfield explained.

Cereals have an important place in the day's menus. They are one of the good sources of energy and contain valuable vitamins and minerals besides. Homemakers who are patriotic ally using just as many of the "No-Point Low-Point Foods" as they can and serving them as frequently as possible are using these abundant cereals in desserts.

Cereals combine well with milk, egg and fruit, and a cereal dessert is easy to prepare, inexpensive, and a satisfying finish to any meal. The most popular are oatmeal, rice, cornmeal and the prepared cereals. Cereal desserts are also excellent means of using bread, such as bread puddings and brown betty puddings.

This simple and nutritious dessert using crumbs will appeal to all members of the family especially the children.

APPLE CRUMB PUDDING

1 1-2 cups soft bread crumbs

2 cups butter
2 large apples, peeled and cored
1-4 tsp cinnamon
1 egg, beaten
1 1-2 cups milk
Sauté crumbs in butter, chop apples. Combine remaining ingredients, add crumbs and apples and pour into buttered casserole. Place Casserole in pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 35 minutes or until pudding is firm in the center. Serve hot or cold. Makes 4-5 servings.

Hot gingerbread and molasses pudding, especially appetizing on cold days, are iron-rich possibilities now because stocks of molasses in grocery stores generally are reported to be in good supply. Gingerbread waffles served with apple sauce, apple butter or a hot fruit sauce makes a quick and delicious dessert. The following recipe calls for sour milk or buttermilk, but sweet milk may be "soured" for this purpose by adding one tablespoon of vinegar.

or lemon juice to one cup of sweet milk.

GINGERBREAD WAFFLES
3 eggs
1-2 cups flour
1-4 cup sugar
1 tsp ginger
-12 cup molasses
1 tsp soda
1 cup sour milk
1-2 tsp salt
1-3 cup butter, melted
1 tsp baking powder

Beat the eggs until light. Add the sugar, molasses, sour milk and the remaining dry ingredients sifted together. Beat until smooth. Then stir in the melted butter, dash of cloves and cinnamon may be added for spiced waffles. Makes 6.
