Why a Farmer Should Buy and Keep War Bonds

by Mark T. Buchanan
Acting Chairman, Division of Farm Management and Agricultural Economics
State College of Washington, Pullman, Washington

DURING the early stages of an inflationary period a farmer should talk like a pessimist and act like an optimist. He should extend himself by means of credit and take advantage of the rising price situation.

During the latter part of an inflationary period he should talk like an optimist and act like a pessimist. He should liquidate his debt and put as many inflationary dollars as possible into a fixed investment. No fixed investment is more satisfactory for this purpose than War Bonds of the United States.

In addition to laying aside present easily obtained money to use when its purchasing power has increased, there are several other reasons why farmers should buy and keep War Bonds.

Reserve for Needed Repairs and Improvements. Every farmer knows that his machinery and equipment gradually wear out and become obsolete. During this time when new machinery and equipment is difficult to obtain, he should lay aside funds with which to replace this equipment when it becomes more readily available following the war.

Prevent Inflation. This war is costing twice as much per year as the total cost of World War I. To the extent that the Government can borrow this required money from individuals out of savings or funds that otherwise would be available for living, inflation will be averted. That is why the Government is much more interested in selling Bonds to individuals than in selling them to banks. Protection. This country and the war effort have been blessed with six successive years of phenomenal crop yields and agricultural production. If a penny is tossed six times and comes up heads every time, the probability of the seventh toss is still 50-50, heads and tails. Although the succession of good crop years does not necessarily portend crop failure to come, nevertheless crop failure is always something that should be considered possible. Money invested in War Bonds will provide protection for living expenses and capital during the difficult years.

Safe Investment. As a rule the paying off of the "mortgage" is a farmer's best investment. During the war years, however, many farmers have accomplished this, and are now seeking a safe investment for extra cash. No investment is safer than the Bonds of our Government. Not only is this investment a safe one, but the returns are attractive. Series E Bonds held for 10 years return interest of 2.9 per cent, compounded annually—in 10 years $4.09 for each $3.00 put in.

Patriotic Motive. Not to be forgotten is the fact that this war must be won. Farmers have more sons and daughters in the service per family than any other group of our population. We must provide them with the planes, tanks, guns, ships, and other materials necessary to speed their return home.

SHE WILL RULE ROUND-UP

Chosen to rule over the thirty-third Pendleton, Oregon, Round-Up, Sept. 14, 15, 16, is Janet Thompson, 19, shown here on her horse, White Foot, at the ranch of Janet's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Thompson.

Janet, known as one of the best girl riders in the Pacific Northwest, first climbed into the saddle when she was two years old; she broke White Foot, and other mounts to ride, and has frequently won in the racing events at the Spring Show held by the Mustangs, Pendleton saddle club, of which Janet is a member. In 1934, she was the Round-Up junior queen.

But it is not only in horsemanship that brown-eyed, dark-haired Janet excels. Now a sophomore at the University of Oregon, in high school days she was awarded a student pilot's flying license after instruction which included 20 hours of solo flying; she is an excellent shot; plays a fine game of golf; and tennis; is an expert angler and skis and swims with excellent form.

However, Janet's life hasn't been all fun. From childhood she has been a real ranch hand and for the past two years has played her part in the food for victory campaign; first driving a truck in pea harvest, and next, running a pea loader, distinctly a man's job, from six in the morning to six at night.

Janet's dad, well known wheat rancher, has since boyhood been one of the mainstays of the Pendleton Round-Up, aiding in events of track and arena. He is a nephew of S. R. Thompson, president of the Round-Up and a brother of Herb Thompson, livestock director. Riding with Janet will be a court of six Round-Up princesses, to be announced later.

V FOR FIVE AND V FOR VICTORY

D. R. Fitzpatrick—St. Louis Post-Dispatch

The Sherman county riders were out Sunday starting at the fair grounds and riding to the viewpoint on Gordon ridge where they could see the north end of the county and from the other side of the road could look up the Deschutes river gorge. Twenty five rode and 63 partook of the picnic which was held at the Jess Landry farm home.

Carsten von Borstel and Earl Lyons are here on furloughs, both being in process of being transferred to Camp Mead, Maryland, a replacement center, from which they expect to go overseas.

Mrs H E Wooton of Sacramento, California submitted to an operation in The Dalles Wednesday. Mrs Wooton is a sister in law of Mrs Wm. J. Martin.

C V Belknap left Saturday night for Eugene where he visited with his son, George and wife, over the holiday, returning Thursday to work.

The Claud Coats family had a picnic at the DeMoss park last Sunday.

Mrs Harvey Thompson came up from Portland Wednesday afternoon for a days visit with her husband. With her was Mrs Wayne Thompson who had been at Camp Roberts for several days visiting her husband.

Elmer Barzee was here a part of this week from Portland to see if the wheat crop was ready to cut. He thinks it will be three weeks yet before much harvesting is done.

James B. Adams returned the middle of the week from Portland where he had spent the week end and the Fourth with his family.

Mrs Lucille Harrington and son of Eugene are here to visit her mother and father, Mr and Mrs Dan McLachlan.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"The men overseas don't mince any words about the way they want to find this country when they come marching home... do they, Judge?"

"They certainly don't, Herb...and they shouldn't. They're doing a masterful job fighting over there to protect our rights and they have good license to expect us to protect their backs here at home. One thing they're mighty clear on is their stand on prohibition."

"Their position on that subject was stated very emphatically in a poll taken recently among American service men in England by the British Institute of Public Opinion. When hundreds of men were asked point blank how they would vote on prohibition, 85% of them stated, in unmistakable terms, that they would vote against it. There's no doubt about it, Herb...the men overseas don't want any action taken on that subject while they're away."

"And they're 100% right, Judge, because I know how I felt when I came-home after the last war—only to learn that we had been over there fighting for so impractical a thing as Prohibition."
