MELVIN BAKER WRITES FROM SOUTH PACIFIC

Wily Knighten has received a letter from Melvin Baker in the South Pacific which tells some thing about the country there.

Dear Wily,
I have been going to write you for some time but I have been on the move pretty much, and found it pretty hard to find much time for writing letters. We are settled down now for awhile though.

My outfit has been in combat twice since you last heard from me, but at the present everything is pretty quiet. There are still a few Japs around but they haven't caused us any trouble for some time.

The sun is just as hot as it was before and sometime I believe it gets warmer. We have some beautiful nights here. I don't believe you could ask for anything prettier. Then all you have to look at is some of your buddies. Really romantic nights, and nothing you can do about it. I have been here in the South Sea Islands for quite awhile and I have never seen any Bedy Lamarr like you see in the shows. They just don't exist. Don't let anybody tell you the natives on these islands are pretty. I've
