necessary to build a civilization on entirely different grounds. It may depend on force and not on any bill of civil rights either English, French or American. Constitutions, if there be any, may not be established for justice, domestic tranquility, general welfare and the blessings of liberty.

Whatever concrete plans have been announced for the post war world are planned on force. Perhaps that is all that will work.
If so, the nations that continue will be those that keep the pistols oiled and the powder factories in operation. We can live in that kind of a world, but it will not be peaceful living.

BUT POINTS HELP

A brief news item brings the happy word that more boys are being born than girls these days.
War that takes them away also brings them but not fast enough.

There has been so many wars all over the world that men were getting on the scarce side, even before the services made them practically out of the market entirely. They are not rationed, like farm tractors, there just aren't any available. That is new and unused except as demonstrators: there are a few used ones, as is not reconditioned.

The new also tells us that even in the great golden west men were getting scarce and that women were actually in the majority, even here. Time was—and only a short while ago—that this was the happy hunting grounds for unattached females of the genus homo.
There was one and some minor fraction men for each woman. Almost any woman could succeed in getting a man, or at least the fraction.

It is the women who can weep about the change in comparative numbers. There will be more competition and women will have to be better to get a job as a wife or to keep it. At least, that will be the case if the market is left to supply and demand. Some government regulation may change all this by establishing a bureau with power to regulate by decree, or order of the chief.

But nothing of that kind can be expected until the situation becomes worse than it is now. There will be a period of lively competition first and Sadie Hawkins day will be every day like "every day'll be Sunday" in the old song.

Secretary Ickes, who was once called "Honest Harold" chides the newspapers because their opposition to Roosevelt was not effective.
They have to know how to read Harold before newspapers do good.

In Other Days

From the Observer, Nov. 20, 1925
County Judge E. D. McKee reports that the steel bridge over Grass Valley canyon has been moved and that the Lone Rock market road is now open to travel.

Mrs. L. V. Moore has been appointed Red Cross seal sale chairman for the county and has announced that the sale will start right after Thanksgiving.

Raymond Henrichs and Joe Hansen passed through Moro last week on their way to Camp Sherman after having witnessed the football game at Eugene.

Travel over the Mt. Hood loop road was practically stopped this week when heavy drifts made car travel almost impossible.

From the Observer, Nov. 17, 1905
A special passed through Moro on Wednesday night loaded with magnates, contractors, laborers et al., with which to begin at Madras the extension of the Columbia Southern from Shaniko.

If you have not heard the phonographs at the Heacock Jewelry store in this city, you have missed a very rare treat.

Mrs. H. Myers is being treated by Dr. Goffin for a broken arm sustained when thrown out of a buggy.

$10,000 to loan on farm land 1 to 5 years at 8 percent interest.
See M. Fitzmaurice, Moro.

At the Hay Canyon meeting W. H. Burrea, Perry Axtell and Wilford Belshe were appointed as a committee to try to obtain a rural route for the district around Hay Canyon.

The budget of the city of Moro called for $6400 with receipts of $4500 leaving $1900 to be raised by taxation. J. C. Freeman was mayor and H. U. Martin, O. A. Ramsey, W. H. Ragdale, F. A. Sayers and W. D. Wallan as councilmen.

Herman Christianson finished ceding his summerfallow this week using five drills to do the work.

Almost no attention is being given by press services to the hearing now being conducted by the interstate commerce commission into the freight rate structure of the country, although every section is directly interested in the outcome. The hearing is for re-examination of freight rates and the decision will be on whether suspension of the 1942 freight rate increase shall be extended beyond January 1. It is expected that ICC will either cancel the rate increases permanently or restore them.
Permanent cancellation has been asked by 18 state commissions on the grounds that the roads are receiving adequate revenues and that this prosperity will continue for an indefinite period after the war.

Opposed to this view is the fact that operating costs, in July as an example, increased by $50,000,- 000 while the gross revenue gain was but $18,000,000. Also, the tax burden has become increasingly heavy with no prospect of a lessening when peace comes. It is admitted by the railroads that their revenues have greatly increased, but it is also claimed that the peak has been reached and a decrease in earnings with no possibility of reducing expense is inevitable under peacetime conditions.

have already been issued these jackets. Their use is optional.

sum of things is yourself.

GEORGE VS. F. D. R.
The reason some people think that Mr. Roosevelt is a greater man than Washington is because George only threw one dollar across the Potomac, but Franklin has thrown a hundred billion dollars around the world. Of course, the chances are that George threw his own dollar.

Ed Carey Talks
(Thanksgiving) Turkey

Bert Childers hails Ed Carey on his back porch. "What you doin', Ed?" he asks.
"Pluckin' our Thanksgiving turkey," Ed replies.
"Looks like a chicken to me," says Bert. "Looks like one to me, too," Ed allows. "But with so many turkeys goin' to our fightin' men, some chickens got to do a turkey-else job."

about it! . . . knowing that the best is going to our men overseas.
-And from where I sit, the most important thing of all isn't rationed. That's the Spirit of Thanksgiving! Today—as the lights are going on again all over the world—there's more of it than ever! And more cause for it—as the powers of darkness yield to freedom, tolerance, and human kindness!
