The High Cost of Living

The Low Price of Electricity

WE all know the cost of living is up—25.4% up since 1939*, in fact. But the average price per kilowatt-hour of PP&L electricity is down 21% since 1939. In that short time the average price we receive for residential electric service has been cut from 2.36 cents per kilowatt-hour to only 1.86 cents now. And compared with fifteen years ago, the average home served by PP&L is now using nearly twice as much electricity—at no more cost.
