NOW SOME REALISM

The wishful thinkers, the starry eyed boys, are beginning to find out something about the facts of diplomatic life.

They have discovered that the ideals so extravagantly expressed in the Atlantic charter are not going to be the ruling philosophy of the peace conference, when and if, we can win the war and get around to making up a new peace treaty.

At the time the rules were loosened last fall it was said that it might be necessary to again ration canned goods.

Some thought the statement was made to take some of the curse off the political trick involved in letting the food buyer have a little relief during the political campaign.

Actually that makes it worse for if the powers who boss the intake of our stomachs knew that food was scarce rationing should have been kept in force during the campaign as well as after the administration had been returned to office.

We'll probably get enough to eat anyway and the grocers will be able to sell more goods under rationing.

Unofficially and actually we are fighting because the administration greatly favored England in its struggle against Germany.

Officially we are probably fighting because Japan attacked us at Pearl Harbor.

the nation with the biggest armies wants to take some territory it can always find a moral permitting it (or take it without). That the rulers of the great powers are solely interested in keeping those powers powerful and that every other thing is subservient to that thought.

And that, children, is the way it is. And Santa Claus doesn't come down the chimney on Christmas eve, and Poland is going to be divided, and if this nation wants to play on the boys' side of the international playground it will have to learn that fights are won by the strongest and toughest and not by the one with the prettiest hair or the highest ideals.

TEN BLUE STAMPS, PLEASE

The value of the election to the American people can now be gauged a little better since we are beginning to pay for some of the privileges accorded us during the beat of the campaign.

Occasion for passage of the measure is a queer provision of the naturalization laws which requires that in order to transmit citizenship to his child born abroad the father must have resided in the United States ten years, five of which must be after his sixteenth birthday.

Plea of Senator Langer of North Dakota for support for his bill to prohibit the Federal Farm Loan bank from refusing to make loans to North Dakota farmers met with little success in the final days of the 78th congress.

WHEAT HISTORY WRITTEN

The trend in wheat production in Oregon from 1889 to the present is shown in a new extension circular, prepared cooperatively by the OSC extension service and the federal agricultural statistician in Portland.

The range in production over that period was from a low of 120,000 acres the first year for which figures are available, to a high of 1,102,000 acres in 1927.

The 1927 crop amounted to 2,340,000 bushels, while the top acreage of 1927 produced a record crop of 27,540,000 bushels.

The most valuable crop, however was a smaller one produced in 1920, when the 21,795,000 bushels resulted in a cash farm income of $36,658,000.

The lowest average price over a five year period was from 1930 to 1934, when the seasonal average price of only 59 cents a bushel returned an average cash farm income of only $2,264,000.

Oregon's total acreage was reduced markedly from 1939 through 1943, with only 728,000 acres grown in the latter year.

Wheat is grown in all but two of Oregon's counties, although approximately 90 percent of the acreage in 1943 was in eastern Oregon.

Umatilla, Sherman, Gilliam and Morrow counties are the leading producers in that order.

Lights Go on Again

For the first time since Pearl Harbor, the floodlights on the 555-foot shaft of the Washington monument flashed on again. It was not a day, but the mistake of a new guard who pulled the wrong switch. It will soon be lighted each night.

THEY'RE GOING HOME

Return of Royal Family to Signify Netherlands Freedom

Photos show Crown Princess Juliana with her youngest child, Princess Margriet Franciska and H.R.H. Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands, husband of Juliana and commander of Dutch forces.

Dutch commandos, dropping with American and British fighters from the skies into the fields of their homeland, while Dutch infantry and armor press deeper into Holland with Allied forces, are today helping to clear the way for complete freedom of the Netherlands.

Behind the German lines, the Dutch Army of the Interior, once the invisible army of the Underground, is sabotaging communication lines and hampering the enemy in every way.

Commanding all Dutch forces under General Eisenhower, is H.R.H. Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands, who like the humblest soldier is also fighting to restore a free home to his family; in the case of the Prince the family is Crown Princess Juliana, and the three little Princesses Beatrix, Irene and Margriet Franciska.

Inspiration of all is Queen Wilhelmina, who, governing in London during the four and a half years of German occupation of her country, has never ceased to be in direct touch with her people.

It is a much-changed Holland according to reliable information. Cities and villages have been devastated by bombing; the Germans have flooded rich areas, recovered by the Dutch so patiently through the years from the sea. More than six percent of the population has been killed, imprisoned or deported. Twenty-five thousand of the Underground have lost their lives in the cause of liberty, twenty-five thousand have been imprisoned. Four hundred thousand men and women have been deported for slave labor; 100,000 Dutch Jews have been slaughtered. Nevertheless the Dutch will continue fighting in the Pacific.

Wax Your Sox To Make Them Last

An old European practice for saving wear on heels and toes of stockings has been revived and recommended for use in this country by USDA research people, reports Miss Lucy Lane, extension specialist in clothing and textiles at OSC.

The practice consists of rubbing paraffin or candle wax on heels and toes of hose. In actual tests on wearing machines this treatment kept hose free from holes four times as long as those untreated.

The wax is merely rubbed over the heels and toes of the stockings before each wearing. Even if wax is not repeated until after several

In Other Days

From the Observer, Dec. 29, 1905 Mr and Mrs C. L. Ireland socially dedicated their elegant new home in this city Wednesday evening.

Everybody in Moro is anticipating great delight from the new lights and water system.

Born: December 16, to the wife of C. E. Boardman, a ten pounder. All are doing well except Charlie, and he says he is overworked.

A fire was narrowly avoided in Wasco a few nights ago. A drunk crawled into the Phalamont barn and started a fire in the hay which was discovered by sober eyes and put out. The sulphit was lodged in jail but managed to get out through the iron door.

Chris Schultz is attending a short term of business college at Portland.

While assisting to load a wagon at the Wm. Burres farm, Thursday, a loaded shot gun in the wagon was accidentally discharged; the load striking Starr Ruggles above the right ankle.

A corset factory has been started in The Dalles with a payroll of 25 employees.

An epidemic of lagrippe is prevalent at Moro the last two weeks and is said to be general throughout the county. In this city fifteen cases are under the care of Dr. Poley.

Sherman county's first case of smallpox made its appearance in Wasco last week when little Robert Nesbit who has been afflicted with severe eczema was found to be also suffering from the small pox.

Miss Mildred B. Strong became the bride of T.E. Phillips of Eugene at a wedding at the home of the bride's parents, Mr and Mrs Perry Strong at The Dalles, which took place at 8 o'clock Christmas eve.

Winning a race with death by a scant margin, C. N. Burget, ambulance driver, brought Peter Peters, Sherman county rancher, in to Hamilton hospital last Friday night and assisted in placing the patient on the operating table, where his appendix, swollen to the breaking point, was immediately removed.
