If wishes were horses...

"...beggars would ride" goes the old rhyme.

Which is just another way of pointing out that wishing, by itself, isn't a very reliable way to get what you want.

You're going to want a lot of things a few years from now. And when it comes to getting them, nobody so far has discovered anything more useful than a nice, big pocketful of good hard cash:

Put every single cent you can spare into War Bonds now. Hang on to those War Bonds. Let them bring you back $4 for every $3 you put in.

There's no way to equal that process for getting what you want a few years from now--and for getting what we all want most of all today: VICTORY!
