Officials Warn Of Holiday Driving Danger

Secretary of State Robert S. Farrell, State Police Chief Charles P. Pray and State Highway Engineer R. H. Baldock joined today in a program designed to encourage safer driving in Oregon during the September Labor Day holiday period.

The three state traffic authorities, representing the three E's of accident prevention — Education, enforcement, and engineering, said their action was prompted by anticipated increases in traffic volume and pace, resulting from recent abandonment of wartime restrictions on gasoline and the 35-mile speed regulation.

Here is what the three officials had to say:

Secretary of State Farrell: "Exposure to accident is certain to be greater during the Labor Day holiday period this year, as a result of increased volumes of traffic, faster driving speeds and poor tires. But this increased exposure need not necessarily mean an increase in the accident rate. The individual driver can prevent accidents by observing traffic regulations, keeping alert to traffic conditions and considering the rights of the other fellow. Now that the war has ended, it would be tragic indeed if the first Labor Day holiday should be marred by a serious traffic toll of human lives. Let's drive carefully and avoid accidents."

State Police Chief Pray: "We are faced with an inevitable increase in traffic congestion and pace as wartime restrictions are released. The state police will be alert and vigilant to keep the flow of traffic moving in accordance with the law."

Glennie Anderson Gordon Harper License Issued

The county clerk issued a marriage license Thursday to Mrs Glennie Anderson and Gordon Harper, both of Sherman county. Mrs Anderson has been clerk of the ration board for many months and is well acquainted throughout the county. Mr Harper is a son of W. C. Harper and a native of Sherman county.

In addition to the impending marriage of Gordon, Willard Harper, a brother, returned from a trip to California with a bride.

Phil O'Meara came home last Thursday with his official army discharge decorating his blouse. He has been a member of the third army, since it was in Africa, has done: "If the Labor Day traffic follows past experience, we may expect a vehicle volume of three times or more greater than that of normal days. The resulting congestion, particularly at points of limited sight distances such as curves and hill-crests, will increase the accident hazard unless drivers exercise proportionately greater care. Oregon's highways are in excellent condition, and if the driver exercises common sense, remembers that his car may not be in the best of condition mechanically, and drives accordingly, there need be no increase in the accident rate during the Labor Day holidays."
