GRAIN MARKET GOOD
WORLD NEEDS IT
Domestic grain markets continued to show strength during the week ended September 27, as the same factors which prompted advances of recent weeks were still present and made for bread buying support, according to the Production and Marketing Administration, USDA. These included large potential world needs for foodstuffs of all kinds, broad domestic trade in flour and feed stuffs, and the strong tone in securities markets. Flour production generally remains at practically full capacity while feed mixers and grinders are engaged by a record demand for their products. As a result, demand for cash grains of all kinds is broad and moderate amounts moving to terminals are readily absorbed. All grades and protein ranges of cash wheat drew close to ceiling prices during the week at some Midwestern markets, while corn, flax and best types of mellow malting barley held firm at ceilings.

Historical Wolves
There was a young maiden,
A Sioux,
More tempting than any home
Brioux,
Who displayed her cute knees,
As she strolled past
And the Braves all hollered Wioux, Wioux!
The reason why a girl can't catch a ball like a man is because a man is so much bigger and easier to catch.
There is no virtue so truly great and godlike as justice.
