Those who would trade freedom for security are deserving of neither.

JOHN LEWIS John Lewis is again making himself the best hated man in America. He has done it before and been forgiven and sought after within a few years. He is a powerful labor leader and desires to be more powerful, which most of his industrial opponents can easily understand.

If Mr Lewis goes far enough the nation may decide, votes or no votes, CIO-PAC, AFL, to the contrary notwithstanding, that similar curbs must be put on irresponsible labor as have been put on the employer side of industry. It may be hoped at the same time that these few curbs work better than do the older ones.

Strikes that endanger production on a wide national front can not be permitted if we are to retain our industrial leadership. Our inventions, our factories our management is of no use unless it is kept operating. Other nations will fall apart unless kept in operation.

Men must work if there is to be production for the hungry of the world, or the demand of our nationals. That means that no one, either an individual or a group, a union or a company, can be allowed to stop American industry at their own pleasure. That is too much power. It must be curtailed.

For some years we have been trying to avert disaster in most production fields by a form of governmental bribery. That seems to have about run its course. The price is getting out of reach. Boosts of 18 1/2 cents at one raise and of 30 cents on wheat and corn indicate that bribery as a means of quieting segments of society is getting too expensive for taxpayers.

Inasmuch as labor, in some instances, has not chosen to elect leaders who will assume the responsibilities that accompany power, the government must provide a means of enforcing those responsibilities on labor. That will not be entirely successful. Yet eventually an expression of the people will insure responsibility. So far the ordinary citizen has been accustomed to waiting for action from the administration, which has not and will not be very successful. When Mr Lewis finds that his arbitrary tactics are not a way to get what he wants, he will stop them, not before.

Sherman County Chapter, Republican Women, were hosts Sunday at a meeting at Kent which was attended by many from all over the county. Dinner of the bounteous basket kind, was served in the basement of the American Legion hall to the 30 some present. This was followed by singing led by Mrs Harry Pinkerton and a talk on some of the measures to be voted on at the general election by Giles French, which elicited quite a bit of discussion on taxation and school matters.

MA AND HIS EAT AND HAVE PARTY TOGETHER

The Mothers and Daughters party held last Friday evening by the members of the Women's club was a most enjoyable affair. The Masonic hall was beautifully decorated by the flower committee, Mrs Edith Burnet, Mrs Truman Strong and Mrs E. H. Moore.

The program was under the direction of Mrs Carol Sayrs. Mrs McKee gave a short talk and then Mrs Tom Fraser welcomed the daughters. Diane Christanson responded. Mrs Elton Eakin played two piano numbers by Grieg, "Concerto in A Minor" and "To The Spring". Mrs Poley gave two readings and Mary Ann Mulick danced three native Hawaiian dances. Miss Arbutnot gave a most entertaining and instructive talk on the Scandinavian countries and had her collection of costumes from various lads modeled by the mothers and daughters.

Mrs Moberg, Mrs Pinkerton, Mrs Hazel Belshe and Mrs Carl Melzer sang "The Song of Peace" by Sibelius.

The hostesses for the evening were Mrs Dewey Thompson, Mrs Jennie Martin, Mrs Bernard Martin, Mrs M. G. Melzer and Mrs Claude Thompson. They served a delicious buffet lunch at the close of the program.

W. H. Hayes and family arrived the first of the week from California to take over the job of caretaker at the fair grounds and also to begin the work of rehabilitating the Assembly of God church physically and spiritually.

Ed Tomlin and Mrs Eleanor Switzer came up from Portland to attend the field meet and visit with Harry Kunsman and family.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh Good Trees and Good Taverns

About the finest stand of timber in our county is on Asa Fullmore's farm. Asa says it's due to "regulation"—checking on trees that don't come up to standard, and trimming them off to give the other trees a chance for healthy livelihood.

He was explaining it to us in Andy Botkin's Garden Tavern, and Andy nodded approvingly. "The same goes for any industry," says Andy. "Like the brewers who give us tavern keepers beer to sell. If they find the place isn't up to standard—clean and courteous and wholesome—they start giving warning. Then, if the warning isn't heeded, they start trimming!"

From where I sit, self-regulation within the brewing industry has done as much to give us pleasant, wholesome places to enjoy a moderate glass of beer, as Asa Fullmore's forestry has done to keep his white pines tall and healthy. It's nature's own protection—and the best there is!

Grangers Grow Social Crops that benefit all Oregonians

MORE THAN 50 YEARS AGO Oregon Grangers started a state-wide movement for improved standards in the production, grading and marketing of farm products. This resulted, in 1931, in a consolidation of the various agricultural agencies under one jurisdiction—the State Department of Agriculture.

Everyone benefited: farmers because they were assured of more satisfactory returns for their investment and labor; the public because they were assured of quality and honest value in the products they bought.

Projects of this nature are as vital a part of Grange activities as better agriculture itself. That is why 28,000 progressive farmers belong to the Oregon State Grange—why membership continues to grow—why the Grange is a dominant force for social progress.

Information about the purpose and accomplishments of the Oregon State Grange is contained in a booklet "Let's Look at the Record". Contact your local Grange for copy, or write direct.
