It's the Kids

that make a fair

there's going to be lots of things to see at the fair this fall: buckin', racin', ropin' and music and laughter and people

The pictures are last year's but more of the same sort of scenes will be made this year when Sherman county's finest crop exhibits it's calves in the arena.

There's excitement here, too, as the judge backs away from what may be his final line-up and the crowd grows still with anticipation, silently going over the good points of the cattle before them.

There's going to be the same kind of fat calves at the 1949 show as these 1948 calves here shown. Few are the residents of Sherman county who don't like to look at T-bones on the hoof and there's almost no place where a man or a woman can see as many good ones as at the Sherman County Fair.

There will be a lot of other attractions, rodeo, races, horse show, dances, music, in fact, about everything that goes to make up a perfect specimen of that great American institution—the County Fair. You remember Will Rogers in the picture, don't you?

But regardless of all these exciting things it always seems that about the finest thing about a Sherman County Fair is the fat calves and other stock and the young folks attending them, leading them, fitting them and then watching the judge with bated breath while showing them. The rest of it is stock and pumpkins and wheat, but that is people and the best part of people—kids.

Speaking of wheat there is a good prize this year for the best wheat and it might not be too hard to win because the quality isn't quite so high this year.

You'll come, of course. This ad isn't written to get you to come but to make sure that you know the date and what to expect when you get there. Perhaps you could write to some friends maybe some former resident, and tell them about it. There's lots of them would have a great time visiting the county again at fair time.

Make plans about the fair, whether you dance, ride horses, or walk on crutches and look. It's going to be good because it has just about everything

Americans want to see in their fairs.

You'll be there, filled to the gills with hamburgers and pop and trying to bet a nickel on the gray colt or yell encouragement to the weaving cow poke who's astride one of Mack Barbour's worst. And you'll be around the pen where the fat calves are being shown, too, and saying that that little so-and-so kid has sure got a nice calf this year.

And you'll enjoy every minute of it.
