SHERMAN COUNTY WHEAT MEN MAY GET MORE ACRES

Sherman county wheat farmers will soon be receiving revised 1950 wheat acreage allotments based on a recently passed amendment to the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938.

"The new amendment does not decrease any farm allotments already established," Ormand Hilderbrand, chairman of the county committee explains. Its effect is to determine a minimum acreage for each farm. If the new minimum is less than the original allotment, no revision will be made.

In general, the amendment provides for a minimum 1950 farm acreage allotment based on 50 percent of the larger of (1) the 1949 wheat acreage plus the land in fallow in 1949 on which wheat was seeded for harvest in 1948, or (2) the 1949 wheat acreage plus the land in fallow in 1948 on which wheat was seeded for harvest in 1947.

This "base" is multiplied by a factor of 92.319 percent to obtain the minimum 1950 allotment. This factor represents the ratio between the 1950 national acreage allotment and the national average wheat seedings during the ten calendar years 1938-1948, adjusted as required by the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938.

"All Sherman county operators will receive a new notice this week, although only about one-third of the farms will receive an increase", states the chairman.

Mail orders filled promptly on anything.

Building Oregon Together

THE PINKERTONS — WHEAT RANCHERS
There's no difficulty getting a harvesting crew together on the 1240-acre Pinkerton wheat ranch near Moro. Father Harry B. Pinkerton (center) operates the combine. His son, Dean, (right), is tractor driver, and son, Allan, truck driver. The ranch has been in the family since 1886. From its rolling hills, rising to 2000 feet, may be seen Mt. Jefferson, Mt. Hood, Mt. Rainier and other snow-tipped Cascade range peaks. It is a summer fallow operation. Modern farming methods keep it highly productive. Up-to-date in banking, too, the Pinkertons use services of First National Sherman County Branch.

MEAT PACKERS HELP STATE GROW. D. E. Nebergall opened a meat business in Albany in 1911. First-day income was $12.35. His 12x12 slaughter house today has grown into a four-floor packing plant, the D. E. Nebergall Meat Co., with business in excess of $3,000,000 annually. The firm, including its Eugene branch, markets its own brand of hams, bacon, lard, sausages, fresh meats, poultry feed in Western Oregon between Salem and Roseburg. Shown, from left, are Nebergall; his daughter, Helen Zolskey, and sons, Olin and Raymond, all company officials. "The complete financial services of the Albany Branch of First National have been most helpful to us," Nebergall said.

BUSINESS GREW FROM PANSY SEEDS. "People thought we were crazy in 1927 for trying to grow pansy seeds at Grants Pass," recalls C. W. Harrold (right). However, the Rogus River Valley looked just right to both Harrold, a mid-West plant grower since 1902, and his son, M. E. Harrold (left). Since then Harrold's Pansy Gardens have earned worldwide recognition, not only for pansies, but for tuberos begonias—and for many new varieties of each. The firm's printery lists 6000 wholesale customers and 30,000 individuals. The Harrolds credit early cooperation of First National of Grants Pass with helping them build this Oregon business.

In every part of our state you'll find busy people—people of vision and energy—people working hard as they better themselves. And as each undertaking expands it creates greater opportunities for all of us in Oregon. Endeavors of the thousands who are Building Oregon Together are many and varied, such as those pictured here.

On our part, those of us in the First National Group make constructive banking services widely available to help Oregon grow—family by family, farm by farm and business by business.
