Easier dish washing...you'll find the secret in petroleum

It may seem like a long trip to your dishpan, but a good share of the "soapless soaps" you use started deep in the earth in an oil well.

These new cleaners, called detergents, actually make water "wetter"...attract dirt and grease almost like a magnet. They make dishes sparkle, work well with all fabrics in hard or soft water, clean cars, and they have many other home and industrial uses.

The practical means of making detergents from oil came out of Standard of California research...by risking substantial sums for experimentation and development. The results: new products to make your work easier, new manufacturing and selling jobs, a company better able to serve you and all the West.
