LITTLE LADY NO SETUP . . . So she scores one of the biggest upsets in the Wimbledon tennis championships ever her status-quo opponent on the right. The ill-matched (in height) pair met in the matches in London. The tall player is Gertrude Moran, more familiarly known as "Gorgeous Gussie," from sunny California. Across the net is Gem Hoahing, a Chinese girl who plays for Britain. Miss Hoahing is only four feet, seven inches tall, but she trounced Gussie, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3.

Oil helps grow food for you... in Hawaii

Beyond the Islands' coral beaches, behind their blue, cliff-sharp hills, lie some of the most efficiently mechanized farming areas in all the world.

The pineapple you eat and much of the sugar you serve are grown, not in palm-shaded tropical valleys, but on broad fields of rich, red soil . . . contour plowed, expertly cultivated, carefully harvested.

And in all these jobs, oil plays a major part.

Oil powers plows and cultivators; petroleum emulsions control weeds in fields of young cane and pineapple plants; at harvest time, huge Diesel machines rake and load 130 tons of cane an hour, and ripe pineapples are gathered on conveyor belts. Trucks and barges speed the harvest to canneries and mills.

Supplying the oil Hawaii needs has been

Standard of California's job ever since kerosene lamps burned in Honolulu's lighthouse. Today, this service has spread to all the Islands . . . provides millions of gallons of petroleum products every year . . . helps insure better living for the Islanders and better food for you.

Building Oregon Together.

These Oregonians are behind three growing enterprises in widely different fields. By taking advantage of Oregon opportunities to better themselves, they help make the whole state grow—creating more jobs, products, services and more opportunities for all of us in Oregon. To make it possible for individuals to more readily help themselves, constructive banking services are made widely available by banks in the First National Group. Thus we help Oregon grow—family by family, farm by farm and business by business. We invite you to come in soon and tell us how we can help you.

LET'S BUILD OREGON TOGETHER

SHERMAN COUNTY BRANCH

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF PORTLAND

Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

MAKES TANKS AND OREGON JOBS

Approximately 30 sheet metal workers, machinists and welders are busily at work in the large Oak Street Tank & Steel plant in Ashland. This Oregon business was born in 1940 when Harry R. Morris (above) began making oil storage tanks in his father's garage to meet local demands. Today Morris' company makes tanks of all kinds, specializing in septic tanks; manufactures a motor steam cleaner for vehicles, and builds metal specialties. The firm's aluminum rowboats are popular on Rogue River Valley streams and lakes. For his company's banking needs, Morris uses constructive services of the Ashland Branch of First National.

JENKS' HATCHERY STILL GROWING

When Mr. and Mrs. Enoch M. Jenks (right) started a chicken hatchery in 1910 on the pioneer Jenks family ranch near Tangent, their kerosene incubators held 250 eggs. Today, with sons Marlowe (left) and Melvin in charge, the hatchery's automatic electric incubators take 213,000 eggs (12 tons) at a setting. There are 8600 chickens at the Tangent breeder ranch and 10,000 turkeys on 300 acres near Corvallis. Quality chicks and poulets are shipped as far as Hawaii. The Jenks' First National customers at Albany consider services of the bank's agricultural field men especially valuable in helping their business—and Oregon—grow.

SONS EXPAND MILLING BUSINESS

A flour milling business founded at Island City in 1896 by the late Edward E. Kiddle continues to grow with the Grande Ronde Valley it serves. Present-day operators of the Pioneer Flouring Mills are the founder's sons, Fred E. Kiddle (left) and Merton W. Kiddle. Now there is a second mill at Union; elevators and grain warehouses at Imbler, Elgin and La Grande; and pea processing plants at Island City and Elgin. Approximately 20,000,000 pounds of Oregon flour is milled annually. Backing services of the La Grande Branch of First National play an important part in the Kiddle's sensitive operations.
