"All Over Town You Hear It..."

Blitz Weinhard for me!

THE ONE AND ONLY BEER THAT'S light...and lively, too!

And the green grass grew all around.

For those who enjoy the dust blowing in their faces, who like to feel it between their teeth and who like to get their collar dirty before having a good time this 1950 Sherman County Fair is going to be a disappointment.

The fair board has had sprinklers running and the grounds are damp and the grass is growing. Even out in the arena clover is up six inches high and cowpokes who bite the dust are going to get a mouthful of clover first. The pipes under the track make it possible to keep it wet. New planking on the grandstand seats is being put on to make it safer for those who like to do some jumping around when the horses come down the track.

Have you noticed the trees at the fair grounds lately. They are growing fine, growing like weeds and big enough to give protection from wind. Pretty, too. And the county court broke down and paved the road to the grounds last year. So with all the dust settling improvements one should be able to wear a white shirt two days at the fair.

But then who's going to wear a white shirt? The proper garb will be a bright one, green, yellow, red and the women will have on some flowered stuff that looks wild like a cowboy but more refined.

Division superintendents, which is fair lingo for crew chiefs, straw bosses, poobahs, or something similar, are saying that there is going to be a good lot of animals at the fair. Of horses Dewey Thompson says he'll have a barn full and the horse barn stretches clear to the distant sheds. Arabians, Appaloosas, Palominos, Quarter horses, Saddle breeds will be showing off the first days and folks will admire them until the final moments.

The 4-H boys and girls have a lot of calves this year. Some of them are tremendous, big and plump, neckless with obesity and washed better than the boys who handle them. (The boys sometimes find the going is a little dirty.)

Then there's going to be music. The Northwesterns, a group of five fun-makers with fiddles, large and small, and other stuff with which to make nice noise. They ordinarily play for KEX but we were told that the station will close down so the boys can come to the Sherman County Fair. Anyway they are going to be here.

If you think of anything else you'd like to have at a county fair hurry up and say so and the board will probably do it because the board is most anxious to please. The board, you see, is used to doing things for the bronc riders, the bull doggers, the club kids, the horse owners, the cake makers, the jockeys, the poultry producers, the hamburger handlers, the ticket takers and giving a hand to the usually silent spectators will be a pleasure.

But probably the most important thing about the Sherman County Fair is that it is your fair. Fairs used to be places where producers went to show off their stuff for sale. Now they do it for display and to advertise the county or district and show what it can and does produce.

The Sherman County Fair will show off the county, willstrate what the county produces. There will be wheat there, naturally. Because wheat isn't showy enough to suit, there will be other and flashier exhibits, like calves and tomatoes and crocheting.

One can watch the displays with pride that this, his native land, grew these things on the hills he sees daily; the hills he watches the sun warm with light each morning and that are green and gold and brown with crop and fallow rotations throughout the year. These exhibits and the thousands of commercial produce like them are our assurance of existence. Land that can grow food is what we live by. All we have come from it.

And so we'll meet you at the cow barn where the fat cows are grunting in their stalls, or at the race track when the horses are pounding down the stretch or leaning on the fence someplace and we'll say "It's a good fair" which it will be, and also "It's a fine county" which it is. Be seen' ya.
