Roy Looney and family left last week for New Orleans after being here for over a year working for the county. He expects to return to piloting along the gulf coast.

Illness of Paul May was found to be caused from a heart attack from which he is rallying satisfactorily the last few days. Ronnie came home from Lewis & Clark to work in the store and to keep business going until his father is able to work again.

Mrs. Jane Frees and children Toni and Michael, left Friday for Portland and Salem to remain a few days before going on to Imperial Beach, California to await the return of her husband from Korea.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Sayrs went to Portland Thursday for a few days.

The county court met Wednesday and listened to complaints about the road conditions in the county before getting down to the business of paying the bills.

The Sherman County club met Thursday night at seven o'clock changing the time so as to be able to entertain the men who came to bring stock to the Midco sale and the buyers who came to take them away. Joe Johnson, judge of the show, spoke about the brand law.

Norman Fields and Giles French drove to Ione Monday night to attend a political rally of Morrow county Republicans.

The ladies of the Moro Community church are serving a waffle supper at the church Tuesday, November 7, election day, from 5 to 8 p. m. They are also having a bazaar all afternoon of the same day in the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pinkerton were in Portland the first of the week to see their new grandson, Gregory Robert Black, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Black.

You Can't Build A Better Mousetrap!

"They're not the best-looking boarders a man ever had," Hack Turner said one day, "and they've got awful tempers. But I've found it pays to have 'em around."

Hack was talking about a family of barn owls, nesting in his silo this year. Some folks believe those little white-faced screechers kill chickens—and ought to be shot on sight. But Hack disagrees.

"Up at State University they've studied barn owls for years—and never known one to eat a chicken. On the other hand, a daddy owl will clean up around 300 mice a month. Farmers that kill barn owls are throwing away the best mousetraps known to man!"

From where I sit, when someone shows a prejudice against any group of animals or humans—it's usually just based on misunderstanding. For instance, some folks are plumb intolerant about those of us who enjoy an occasional quiet glass of beer. Get to really know us and you're liable to find we're pretty good birds at that!

How do you like our new shingle?

We're your new headquarters for General Electric Automatic Heating Equipment.

Our new appointment is a big event for you. It means that General Electric Heating Equipment is available—right now—right here in your own community. It means that you now have our organization at hand to install G-E equipment—and keep it serviced.

We welcome the chance of telling you personally just why G-E heating is "just right." There are a lot of things you will want to know about cost, installation, how the equipment works, and why it works better.

A phone call or a post card will bring you the answers.

TIME CONFUSION IN HIGH EDITORIAL CIRCLES

Excerpt from Editorial Page, Canby Herald, September 28, 1950; by Thomas W. Gerber, Editor

If you know any brave word-and-phrase explorer who happened to read the editorial comments of both the Oregonian and the Journal Sunday (Sept. 24) on the subject of so-called daylight saving time and the bill to be voted upon November 7, watch him carefully for a few days. He may begin cutting out paper dolls or trying to pick daisies off the ceiling. But he'll recover. A few paragraphs of Bob Ruark or Drew Pearson probably will put his trolley back on the wire.

Both of these eminent newspapers seem to have assigned the top experts of their Departments of Utter Confusion to the task of befuddling folks about Oregon's little argument as to the measurement of time. We doubt if there was collusion, however. Both writers started their arguments from erroneous premises, but from different ones.

The Oregonian's word-slinger set up a straw man for his shadow-boxing. He started off by advising people to give some thought to the "obscure" measure on the ballot "which has been mis-called a 'daylight saving' bill" and which, he says, is "a legislative phony."

Great Scott, where art thou? Nobody has been calling this measure a daylight saving bill. It says right here in the title it is a measure "TO ESTABLISH STANDARD TIME." It says so emphatically in the text. The act contains a safety-valve by which the governor may change the state's time in case of dire necessity, which is a good, flexible provision, although it is unlikely any governor would invoke it.

The Oregonian author says he'd like to see a clear-cut state-vote on Standard versus Daylight time. Okay, son. You'll get it.

The Journal man simply got his facts tangled. In the blithely informal style which causes readers to feel friendly without being able to understand what they've read, he wrote:

"It's like this: The Oregon legislature adopted a bill which authorized the governor to proclaim daylight saving time, ..." etc., and: "Twas then Portland voters adopted the daylight saving amendment."

The fact is, Portland started the whole mess by foisting a semi-annual time change on neighboring communities which had no voice in the matter. Portland voters adopted it by a very narrow margin, but they did adopt it. THEREAFTER the state legislature almost unanimously passed the law establishing standard time in Oregon. The primary purpose of the law was to bring about uniformity and prevent Portland from continuing to inconvenience other sections of the state. Putting it somewhat more crudely, the law was intended to correct Portland's bad manners. The Journal writer complacently and erroneously concludes that he will get daylight saving time if the state law is adopted by the voters. 'Tain't so, Joe.

Local autonomy is a workable and efficient political principle in matters affecting only local communities. When the effects of local legislation react far beyond the municipality which enacts it, intervention from a larger political unit becomes necessary. The Oregon legislature acted wisely.

is this YOU?

Most women here are letting Reddy Kilowatt do more and more of their housework.

And why shouldn't they? The longer Reddy works, the less per hour is his pay. Almost everything you buy costs more than ten years ago, except the services of Reddy Kilowatt, your low-cost electric servant.

THE COST OF LIVING is up 68% since 1940. But PP&L's average price for household electricity is down 40%!

RATE CUTS SINCE 1940 have meant total net savings of nearly 18 million dollars to users of PP&L's electricity!

TODAY'S BIGGEST BARGAIN! Residential electric rates here are less than half of the national average.
