Rufus News

(By Mrs. George L. Fox)

MOTHER NATURE HAS BATH

Enough rain fell early Friday to stop Rufus orchard men from picking cherries. The rain really began falling in the wee hours on Sunday keeping it up all day. There was enough moisture to go down into the earth to meet the old moisture in the ground.

The wheat crop suffered thru the early dry weather in the spring, but it has paid off with the cool weather and rain of the past month. On the breaks of the river, a touch of golden grain may be seen, but the fields in general have a dark green color yet. From all appearances this area will have a late harvest of its wheat crop.
