RUFUS ITEMS

(By Mrs. George L. Fox)

The home of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Fields of Rufus, was the scene of youth and activity last Wednesday evening when Mrs. Fields and Mrs. Leonard Fields were joint hostesses to the eighth grade graduates of the Wasco school.

Mrs. Leonard Fields and Mrs. Paulen Kaseberg transported the students directly from school and helped entertain them the remainder of the afternoon and evening.

There are six boys and six girls in this class: C. Lee Kaseberg, Joe Drinkard, Sterling Gochnauer, Robert Hastings, Jack Wallace, John McCall, Sally Fields, Mildred Austin, Betty Haven, Janice McIntyre, Phyllis Watkins and Carmen Royse.

After playing games indoors and out, dinner was served in the basement recreation room at three tables. Weiners were roasted in the fireplace. Presently the boys and girls all disappeared to the outdoors again, where they played games until nearly dark. They then returned to the basement, where they danced to the music of records until 8:30, when strawberry short cake and ice cream was served before they returned to their homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Leslie and small daughter and son of Ordinance recently visited overnight at the T. L. Fields home. They also called on Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Fields, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Andrews and the Leonard Fields' of Wasco. Bill is on old deer hunting pal of many residents of the Wasco community and has many friends here.

Dick Smith instructed the grangers in square dancing after the regular meeting at the hall Thursday evening.

Rolland Johnson, master, called the meeting to order. Curtis Neal, agriculture, gave a talk on the control of obnoxious weeds. Geo. Fox was elected as an alternate delegate to attend state grange at Medford June 8.

Eugene Eaton chief observer of the Sky Watch at Rufus spoke of the need for watchers. The air force personnel will put on a short program beginning at 7 p. m. June 18 at the grange hall. The public is invited.

It was reported Mrs. Elizabeth Kuypers was taken to Mid-Columbia hospital suffering from a stroke.

Mrs. Allen Tom entertained with an informal buffet luncheon at her home Thursday afternoon. A group of local women were invited.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fox left Saturday to spend a few days at their ranch at Corbett.

Douglas Medler was absent from school Thursday and Friday of last week. He had a tonsilectomy. Doug made good progress and was back in school Monday. Doug is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Medler.

Saturday night guests of the G. Foxes were Dr. and Mrs. Wilson Foote of Corvallis and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Weatherford and son Grant of Arlington. Additional dinner guests Sunday were Mrs. Foxes nephew Bruce Jenkins and three of his friends from Vancouver, Washington.

RUFUS HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES FIVE

There were five high school and one grade school student receiving their diplomas at graduation Monday night. They were Donna and Charles Wilson, Gayle Eaton, Al Blake and George Riggs in high school and Norman Austen for the eighth grade. The stage was decorated with spring flowers and a poster of red roses with "Class of '53" made an appropriate background for the stage.

Mrs. W. T. Little played "Pomp and Circumstance" for the marches. Invocation was by Rev. Roberts. Salutatorian address was by Al Blake. Charles Wilson sang, "Bells of The Sea". The valedictorian address was by Donna Wilson. A vocal solo, "Still is the Night" was sung by Dottie Steward.

Dr. Bohlin, professor of EOCE at La Grande gave the address and told the students we are living in a land of opportunity.
