Six Oregon 4-H'ers Win National Honors

Joan Karns, 18, of Oreno, a 9-year 4-H'er, has completed 41 projects, with an outstanding record in cooking. She won national honors in the 4-H Achievement program, with a trip to the National 4-H Congress awarded in the name of the President of the United States. In addition, Joan has won many county and state awards, including two scholarships.

Donna Pierson, 15, of Hood River, a 7-year 4-H'er, has won National honors in the Beautification of Home Grounds program, and a trip to the National 4-H Congress donated by Mrs. Charles Walgreen. She planted her home lawn, trees, shrubbery, and flower garden, built a front sidewalk and a lattice for roses. Donna was champion in home beautification at county and state fairs and won awards for landscaping demonstration, flower arrangements, and flower judging.

Janet Babcock, 16, Hillsboro, a 5-year 4-H'er, selected cheese souffle as her dairy foods demonstration this year. She competed for grand champion in all home economics demonstrations. As national Dairy Foods Demonstration Winner she was awarded an all-expense trip to the 4-H Club Congress by the Carnation Co.

Harold Seely, 17, of Hubbard, for four years conducted a corn project which he increased to 2 1/2 acres the past year. His corn yield has averaged 75 bushels per acre due to the use of a good hybrid variety of seed and fertilizer, increasing his yield 20 bushels per acre. He also grew small acreages of wheat, oats and barley. Winning National honors in the Field Crops program, he received a $300 scholarship from International Harvester. Harold has been an active participant in judging, was a member of the champion crop demonstration team.

Diane Sause, 17, Garibaldi, has completed 33 projects in 8 years of 4-H Club work, with her greatest interest in home economics. She won National honors in Girls Record and a $300 scholarship given by Montgomery Ward. County and state contests have brought many honors, among them style revue winner, County Dollar Dinner champion, and, on her cook book, the grand champion title at the State Fair. She also was a camp counselor, recreation leader and song leader.

Doreen Bohnert, 17, of Central Point, a 9-year 4-H'er is a National winner in the Grand champion program and has received for her efforts a $300 scholarship provided by Thomas E. Wilson, Chicago. She raised six fat hogs from 1945 to 1948, and began raising cattle, starting with a Hereford heifer and two choice steers. Doreen used her steer profits to buy heifers and start a breeding herd.

State Champion Is Award Winner In National Wool Sewing Contest

LONG BEACH, Calif.—Oregon's junior home sewing champion in the seventh annual "Make It Yourself with Wool" Contest has captured the top award in the Junior Class at the event's coveted National Finals in Long Beach's Municipal Auditorium.

The new National Sewing Champion is Judy Heitkemper, 17, of Portland, who won her own state's championship award and then competed with the best sewers 13 other Western states had to offer.

Miss Heitkemper's award is a $300 scholarship, presented by Pendleton Woolen Mills of Pendleton, Oregon.

She and Miss Beatrice Lamb, 20, also of Portland, represented Oregon when the outstanding sewers from all parts of the West gathered in Long Beach to model their own home-sewn fashions in the important event which climaxes each year's sewing contest.

Miss Heitkemper won Oregon's junior title with a two-piece ensemble of a dress of matching green and white checked worsted and a distinctive full-length coat of avocado green wool suede cloth.

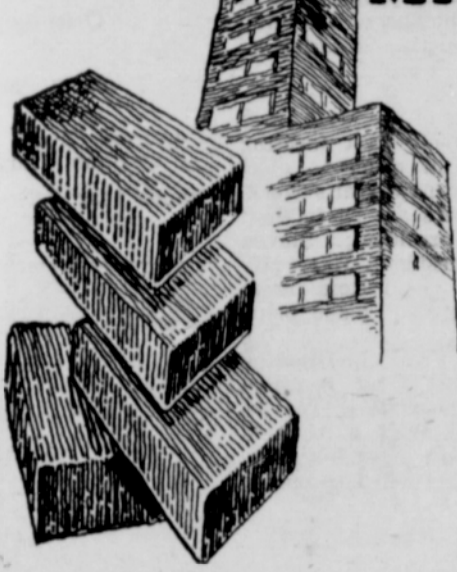

Miss Lamb's senior title-winning entry is a suit of oxford gray flannel trimmed with oaks of silver gray. Its fitted jacket, lined in scraped taffeta, has a turned back collar with dimensional tab detail, a nipped-in waistline, and an arched hipline.

The two state home sewing champions received all-expense-paid trips to California, to be guests at the 10th annual convention of the National Wool Growers' Association and to participate December 9 in the National Fashion Show. They traveled to and from California as guests of the F. W. Woolworth Company.

Designed to create interest in the art of sewing at home with virgin wool fabrics, the "Make It Yourself with Wool" Contest is held in all states of the Western wool-growing empire. It is open to all girls from 14 through 22 years of age. Those from 14 through 17 enter the junior division; those from 18 through 22, the senior division.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Oregon Wool Growers Association and the Wool Bureau sponsor the contest each year throughout the state. Mrs. Floyd Fox of Silverton was President of the Auxiliary during the 1953 event, and Mrs. Peter Oblique of Burns was State Contest Director.
