WHAT'S DOING

Cal Horn, your Telephone Manager

A radio powered by sunlight

For centuries man has dreamed of getting power from the sun. Perhaps you, too, have wondered about it. Well, now it's happened. Bell Telephone Laboratories has invented a solar battery that directly and efficiently turns sunlight into useful amounts of electricity. It's made from an ingredient of common sand. Even at birth, it supplies enough power to run a small radio set (right) or send voices over telephone wires. Much development remains to be done. But the Bell Solar Battery, used with transistors, offers great opportunities for improvement and economies in telephone service. Research like this helps us bring better telephone service to more people at the lowest possible cost. Pacific Telephone works to make your telephone a bigger value every day.

Standard built an idea into the Pacific Northwest's favorite service

Taking better care of your car is an old tradition with us in the Pacific Northwest. We built the world's first gasoline station in 1907 at Seattle... pioneered windshield cleaning, tire and battery care, clean restrooms... introduced credit cards for your convenience... developed new products like RPM 10-30 Special Motor Oil, "Detergent-Action" Chevron Gasolines. Today, you get fast, careful service... a 3-to-1 choice of Pacific Northwest motorists at Standard Stations and independent Chevron Stations throughout this region.

Working with you in Washington, Oregon and Idaho

- 2,923 Standard employees
- $14,096,835 annual payroll
- 4,810 Pacific Northwest shareholders
- $81,620,424 investment in plant, refinery and distribution facilities
- $5,000,000 worth of goods and services bought from more than 1,100 Pacific Northwest businesses in 1953
- 2,604 independent businessmen who support themselves and their 7,081 employees by selling Standard products

... and Standard's industrial "firsts" have helped to promote prosperity here! Lumberjacks of the 1880's counted on our kerosene and skid grease in their camps. As the industry grew, Standard had a hand in the mechanization of timbering; developed petroleum products to aid in forest conservation, reduce lumber waste; and extended its facilities to meet the growth of the Evergreen Empire.
