MORE PEOPLE BEING KILLED ON HIGHWAYS

Oregon's 1955 traffic death toll has climbed to 286, Secretary of State office reports today.

September accidents claimed 33 lives according to a tentative count of reports received to date, and the figure may go higher if delayed reports are received or if persons now listed as injured later succumb.

August traffic deaths, reported earlier as 39, now have reached 41 with the receipt of two more August fatality reports. One more death was charged to the Labor day weekend, raising Oregon's traffic death count during the final three-day holiday of the summer season to seven.

Church Women To Buy Church Dishes; Hear Pastor Report

The Presbyterian Women's society met on Wednesday at the attractive new farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Johnston. Dessert was served at 1:30 by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Earl Gentry and Mrs. Floyd Platt.

Mrs. Harry Pinkerton presided at the business meeting. It was planned to purchase extra dishes for the church social room kitchen. A committee was named to have charge of arranging flowers in the church sanctuary for Sunday services. Greetings were brought from Mrs. Grace Wallan by Mrs. Edith Burnet, who recently visited Mrs. Wallan at Garfield, Washington. Mrs. Alfred Solomon led the devotionals, discussing the Book of Hebrews.

Mrs. Andrew Paulson and Mrs. Gwen Matteson, co-chairmen of Christian education work, presented the speaker, Rev. Solomon. He gave an informative and interesting talk on the "released time" Bible study for 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th grade students on Thursdays and Fridays at the church. He also told of the Sunday school work; of Christian colleges and of Westminster Houses on state college campuses, supported by the Board of Christian Education.

An announcement was read from the Homer Townsends, at the mission school at Albuquerque, New Mexico, telling of the adoption of a baby son, Douglas Alan. The baby has an older adopted sister.

Wheat Down More Than Other Crops In Past Past Year

Oregon farm marketings of wheat last year slipped more cashwise than any other major farm crop. This is revealed in revised figures on 1954 cash receipts from farm marketings compiled by the federal department of agriculture and just received by J. F. Short, director of the Oregon department of agriculture. The same report shows total farm marketings last year of $382,661,000 compared with a revised 1953 total of $401,381,000. The 1954 farm income from wheat was $53,973,000, almost a $10 million drop from 1953 and the lowest since 1950.

In releasing these figures, Short pointed out that they represent gross income out of which farmers had to pay all farm and labor costs as well as taxes.

Farm receipts from cattle and calves last year were $57,397,000 or almost $3 million above 1953.

Oregon farmers marketed $50.8 million worth of dairy products which was $3 1/4 million less than in 1953; $32.6 million worth of poultry products, down $8.7 million from the year earlier; and $6.7 million worth of other livestock. Marketings of all meat animals were a little over $74 million, up $3 million from a year earlier and the total on all livestock and livestock products was $164,287,000 or $9.2 million off from 1953.

On the crop side of the picture, barley ranked second for a single commodity, bringing in $15 million or $5 million more than in 1953. Snap beans and potatoes each produced over $10 million of farm income and hay was worth $7.6 million. Seeds were worth $18,340,000 with common rye grass producing $6.8 million of the seed total.

Labor Nearly All Employed In Oregon Now

Oregon's available labor supply dropped to 15,900, lowest in three years, as Klamath Falls issued an urgent call for about 600 potato pickers for a five-week harvest. Biggest shortages of workers were around Portland and in eastern Oregon, according to 26 local offices of the state employment service.

Fewer than 2,000 persons east of the Cascades were looking for jobs, reports showed. Living quarters are available for single men near the potato fields, but because of the few labor camp cabins unoccupied families and groups should check with local offices before leaving. Workers must be able to drag 60 pounds along the ground as they stoop to pick up potatoes.

More than half of the state's unemployed still were in and around Portland, although the number dropped 1,500 to 8,300, more than six thousand below a year ago. Late food processing and withdrawal from the labor market of thousands of students and housewives accounted for the drop.

Most Willamette valley and coastal employment offices reported more persons looking for work than a month before with Salem, Astoria, Tillamook, and Coos Bay having the largest increases.

Payments of benefits to insured workers during September dropped to $476,516, lowest since July, 1952. The monthly total was 20.1 per cent lower than in August, 57.2 per cent below a year ago and the lowest September in four years. In addition $11,900 was paid to laid-off federal personnel and $20,617 to veterans of the Korean action.

Your children visit a new world each week

Each Thursday, teacher turns a knob and the class enters a new world—a world many are visiting for the first time via the Standard School Broadcast.

Since 1928, this program has introduced man's musical heritage to Western children. Now playing for its second generation, the Standard School Broadcast is probably the biggest "classroom" in history. It has an audience of nearly 1,500,000 listeners throughout the West, Alaska and Hawaii... students in 54,000 classrooms and adult listeners at home.

They hear a symphony orchestra, a dramatic cast, choral groups and guest artists. Standard provides Teacher's Manuals as program listening guides.

Goal of the School Broadcast is to help listeners gain an absorbing new interest in music, and—through music—a broader knowledge and understanding of the world around them. We suggest that you listen in at home to enjoy the world's best music and to gain one more link with your children's interests. TUNE IN every Thursday... check your newspapers for time and station.
