Mrs. Merrill Oveson accompanied her husband who came Tuesday for the Soil Conservation annual meeting, where he was one of the speakers. They remained until Wednesday to visit friends. Their children are all away from home now. Dick is with the U. S. air force; Steven is doing missionary work for his church in Mexico; Joan is married and living in California; and Mary is a college student at BYU in Utah.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Sayrs went to The Dalles Saturday to attend the meeting of the PCA that day and a party that evening. They went on to Portland to spend a few days before leaving for Arizona where they expect to stay for several weeks avoiding the cold weather and vacationing.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kock returned the first of the week from several days spent in the valley visiting relatives.

Clarence Higley came home this week after a long period in the hospital as a result of a broken pelvis caused by a fall with a horse.

Roy Bransky, formerly of Vale, and with a home in Hood River, is here to assist in the soil conservation office this spring and summer, helping complete the county's soil survey.

Mr. and Mrs. Darwin VanGilder returned from Portland Tuesday afternoon and found the going a little rough with a high wind and snow in the gorge.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Jones spent the week end in Portland, returning home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Henriks went to Portland Friday to spend a day or two with her father.

Mrs. Mack Alsop spent several days in Wamic visiting her daughter LaVonne and family. Mack went over Monday to bring her home.

Roy Tiller of Hermiston was down over the weekend to visit his mother, Mrs. Iva Kee and other relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Thompson went to Portland Monday for a few days visiting after which they will take off for California for the remainder of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Loy Cochran are now staying at the Eben Kee ranch while they are on an extended trip which will take them into South America to Lima, Peru, if all works out as planned.

Rev. Ernest Goodenberger went to Portland Tuesday to attend a Presbyterian meeting. He remained until Wednesday on account of the icy conditions of the roads in that area when time to start home Tuesday evening.

LIVESTOCK CLUB

The Moro Livestock club held a meeting Monday January 7. Previous to the meeting T. W. Thompson gave a talk on feed and nutrition and their importance in the feeding of livestock.

The officers for the year are as follows: Darlene Gochnauer, president; Steven Burnet, vice-president; Wilma Gentry, secretary; Bill Close, song leader and Jean Ross, news reporter.

A business meeting was held and Mrs. Gochnauer then served refreshments.

WASCO BAKERS

By Margaret O'Meara
We met on January 9 with all members and leaders present.

We first held our business meeting, then we went to work and made hamburger sandwiches. We all enjoyed eating them.

In our next meeting we will each make a cold sandwich.

By Christy Woods

Meeting was called by vice president, Barbara Gilman, since the president was absent.

Secretary Darlene Miller read the minutes of the last meeting and they were approved.

Mary Ann Thompson lead us in the 4-H pledge and the flag pledge.

Darlene and Patty Miller gave a demonstration on how to make hamburgers. Next meeting Gene Yeager and Barbara Gilman will give a demonstration.

The meeting was held at the church January 14, 1957.

Youngsters have been having great time sliding down First St during the snow, some of them are not so young, either

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moore and Barbara, and Miss Cherrill Fields were dinner guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hilderbrand. Mrs. Hilderbrand reports that she recently had a telephone call from her brother, Stan Moore, who with Harry Decker and Duane Carroll are temporarily at Lackland air force base in San Antonio, Texas. They are all getting along fine.

Don Royle and Dick Martin of Portland were Friday night and Saturday visitors at the Lloyd Royle home.

The Thursday night pinochle club met at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Gosson last week with Mrs. Robert Nisbet and Mrs. Harold Engberg as guests. After a business meeting and report from those members who gave a gift of food to lonely members of the community at Christmas time, the evening was spent playing pinochle. Mrs. Douglas Shull won high prize and Miss Cherrill Fields low.

The last in a series of textile-painting workshops was held last week at the home of Mrs. Lee Pearson. Next on the program of the extension group will be a four-day workshop on cotton dresses. The preliminary meeting was held Tuesday and this will be followed by a workshop for the leaders who will then conduct their workshop for the rest of the members, probably sometime in March.

Dorcas society met at the home of Mrs. Guy Andrews with Mrs. L. L. Funk as co-hostess. There were 14 members present. New officers for the coming year were installed: Mrs. Arthur VanGilder, president; Mrs. Leo Watkins, vice-president; Mrs. Virgil Brock, secretary; Mrs. Jerry Barnett, treasurer; Mrs. L. L. Funk, reporter.

At a recent Methodist church board meeting the members voted to continue the improvements on the church by going ahead with the siding and finishing the trim. Clyde Fridley and LeRoy Belshee have been hard at work building a new porch, and adding mahogany paneling in the new entrance. They have hung the new birch doors, and Mr. Fridley seven new blackboards measuring four feet by eight feet, one for each of the church-school classrooms. Floyd Rathbun and Delmer Smith have also been working on the repairs in the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Anderson and Linda were weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Harper.

"You bet Pacific Power was busy in '56!"

Biggest demand in history for low-cost PP&L power sparks big "kilowatt factory" building program!

A record 3 1/2 billion kilowatt-hours of electricity were delivered to 275,000 Pacific Power & Light customers in 1956! This all-time high tops a five-year period of growth during which customers of Pacific Power have increased their use of electricity nearly 60%!

To satisfy this growing popular demand for dependable low-cost electric service, Pacific Power & Light is hard at work building and planning big new power plants that will help you live better electrically for many years to come.

Power developments started last year alone will double the Company's electric generating capacity by the end of 1958.

WORLD'S HIGHEST earth-fill dam is now under construction by Pacific Power & Light at its Swift hydroelectric development on the Lewis River in southwest Washington. This great project will add more than 200,000 kilowatts to the region's power resources. In addition, Pacific Power is installing a third 50,000-kilowatt generator at its Merwin dam, first of Lewis River developments.

100,000 NEW KILOWATTS will be generated at PP&L's Dave Johnston steam-electric plant being constructed near Glenrock, Wyoming. This modern coal-fired plant will be interconnected with the Northwest Power Pool by heavy-duty transmission lines.

These big projects are just part of a $157,000,000 five-year power development program Pacific Power has in progress to help assure a plentiful supply of low-cost electric power for this fast-growing region
