

Moro Personals

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Roberson were in Forest Grove Sunday to watch their son, Jimmy, graduate from optometry school at Pacific university. Jimmy will take some additional work until May, then take the state examinations and go into the service for his hitch.

Mrs. Mac Alsop is in California visiting her son, Keith and family for a few weeks and is missing the cold weather.

Art Justesen is out of the hospital after major surgery and he and Mrs. Justesen are in Phoenix, Arizona while he is recuperating.

Leslie Lawrence, brother of Jack, visited here a few days from his home at Fargo, North Dakota and then went on to visit his grandchildren in California. This was his first visit to Moro after Jack had been telling what a nice climate we had here. Leslie came in at 22 below.

Week end guests of Mrs. Vernon Platt were Mrs. Luvia Platt of Fargo, North Dakota, S-Sgt and Mrs. Glenn Platt and their daughter Virginia of Geiger Field at Spokane. Visitors for dinner Sunday were The Bill Flatts of Condon, Floyd Flatts of The Dalles and the Bob Axtell family of Moro.

Mrs. Lenora Huls is in the Mid-Columbia hospital in The Dalles, where she is receiving medical attention.

Tex Irzyk is home again after having a couple more toes straightened out in an operation at The Dalles hospital.

There was no grade school Tuesday the water supply being short in the morning because of a frozen main.

CARD OF THANKS

I want to express my sincere thanks to the friends who kept me cheerful with cards and flowers while I was in the hospital recently.

Star Christens Largest U.S.-Made Tanker

LOVELY MADELEINE CARROLL lends a hand at building the newest Niarchos tanker. Here the famous actress and friend of the Merchant Marine is seen making the first weld at the keel-laying of the 46,000-ton giant. Unique ceremony honored largest tanker yet built in America. Christened by Miss Carroll at its launching this January, the liner-sized ship will be big help in Suez oil crisis. (ANS)

Rufus Personals

Mrs. George Fox

Rufus school was called off Friday an account of inadequate heating in the building. After the school buses stood idle over the weekend they refused to start on the cold Monday morning. So Rufus grade school students had a holiday Monday and Tuesday. With new batteries, etc., the buses started again Wednesday morning.

The Sherman high school bus at Rufus driven by Otto Peterson refused to start Monday morning, also, so the students in this area enjoyed a holiday, too. By Tuesday the high school bus was on schedule with its usual route.

Most of the work at Rufus is shut down due to the cold. The Maryhill Ferry is unable to run on account of ice in the Columbia river.

The spaghetti dinner planned by the Rufus PTA for January 31 has been called off due to the weather. The group will have the dinner at a later date.

Mrs. Fay Brackett has been in the hospital at Goldendale, Wn., since last Wednesday. She is better and her husband expects to bring her home in a day or so. Joan is staying with Mrs. W. M. Franklin while her mother is away.

Mrs. W. M. Franklin reports that she received word from the rest home where her husband, Rev. W. M. Franklin, is at Nampa, Idaho that he is improving. Her son, Jim, at Nampa college says also he can see a little change in his father.

A report received by Mr. and Mrs. George Fox is that their son George Jr. a junior at OSC, has joined the Pi Tau Eigma, the mechanical engineers honor society at OSC. To be eligible for this society a student has to be in the upper one third grade point average of the class.

Larry and Leon Allen sons, of Earl Allen, a Core driller, have withdrawn from Sherman high school. They and their father have gone to Powers where the boys expect to enter school. Larry was a guard on the Sherman high varsity team in basketball. Allen will work as drilled on a job about twenty miles out of Powers.

Letter From Salem

By Nicky Tom
wife of Allen Tom, State Rep.

A wave of relief swept over the State House late this afternoon as the eleven-day-old Senate deadlock was finally broken. The tension had become almost unbearable. As Eastern Oregonians we feel an extra measure of satisfaction over the fact that Senate President Overhulse is from our side of the mountains. We came to know him well last session while he was still in the House and sat at the next desk. One resident of Sherman county must be especially proud and happy tonight. Miss Geraldine Overhulse, sister of the new Senate President, is a teacher in Rufus.

This morning, while the Senate was still struggling with its problem, I talked with the husband of Jean Lewis. She was at that time still a candidate for the presidency. Mr. Lewis was diplomatically quiet about Senator Lewis' personal ideas about her candidacy. He had, however, been having some disturbing thoughts about his own situation should his wife become the first lady President of the Senate. "Somehow," he said, "I can't see myself pouring in tea for you ladies."

The members of the House, meanwhile, have managed to get down to business. As of Thursday, January 24, 196 bills have been introduced. The majority of them are Ways and Means bills, but more than thirty are tax bills introduced at the request of the Interim Tax Study Committee.

Last Tuesday I was given one of those opportunities that come once in a lifetime. It was my birthday and as a special surprise my husband asked the Speaker to mention it from the platform at the end of the morning session. By almost sacred tradition secretaries NEVER say a word on the floor of the House during a session. The Speaker, however, took me unaware when he followed his birthday greeting by asking me how old I am. He undoubtedly did not expect a woman to answer such a question, but this particular woman is not one to let golden opportunities pass her by. For the second time in the history of the Oregon Legislature a secretary dared to address the assembly and lived to tell the tale. This is a legend to save for my grandchildren.

Three of the traditional entertainments for the members of the Legislature and their wives have taken place in the last week. On Monday night we were honor guests at the Man of the Year dinner sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce in Sweet Home. One of our members, Ed Cardwell of Sweet Home, was selected as senior Man of the Year.

Wednesday night members of the Oregon Farm Bureau Federation were hosts for a most enjoyable evening. Their dinner regularly features Oregon food products and was this year built around charcoal-broiled chicken. The thought of broiling enough chicken to feed over three hundred people is enough to stagger any housewife, but it was beautifully managed.

Today the wives and lady Representatives were tea guests on Willamette University Campus. Our hostesses were members of Town and Gown, an organization composed of Willamette faculty wives and Salem townswomen.

Next week the Senate committees will be organized and functioning. New members in the House should be well acquainted with their duties by then. The pace will quicken all over the State House and we will be busy at last.

RUFUS WEATHER

It's been around and below zero the past week, so most folks have accepted that fact and quit griping about the weather. Icicles hang thick and heavy from the house roofs. Rufus has the same trouble as other places with frozen water pipes, cars and trying to keep warm.
