It is with heartfelt gratitude that we say "Thank You" for the many expressions of kindness and sympathy, the beautiful flowers and cards which came to us during our recent bereavement. Our appreciation cannot be fully expressed.

A big rain started in this area about 5 p. m. Saturday and continued during the night to the wee hours of Sunday morning. It was enough to leave puddles of water standing in the low places. Of course, the rain brought harvesting operations to a standstill. The men took the opportunity to go fishing or just relaxing Monday and Tuesday. The wheat will all be required to have a moisture count run again before they can do any cutting. They hoped to begin again Wednesday. A stiff west wind blew the first couple days of the week to make the days cool and nights chilly. This did not dry up the wheat fields very fast.
