How Standard uses earnings to back its faith in the future

The U. S. will need as much oil in the next 15 years as it produced in the past century. To locate new sources of oil and develop known fields, we invested $280,915,466 last year . . . drilled 968 new wells, of which 176 were dry holes.

To help transport more oil and finished products in the future Standard has placed orders for $148,368,510 worth of new facilities, including 10 supertankers, greater pipeline capacity and additions to our fleet of trucks and trailers.

Research helps create new products . . . and new jobs. During 1957 we had 1400 full-time employees in research and technical services alone. As a result of continuing research we now make more than 1,000 products that were not marketed 15 years ago.

While most of Standard's income went back into the business, our 148,315 stockholders received about 4¢ for each dollar of stock investment at market value. Dividends encourage future investments, helping all business to expand and improve service.

Economic progress doesn't just happen. It must begin with confident, long-range planning to meet the challenge of the future.

As we see it, this is the challenge: By 1968 the U. S. will have 202,000,000 people . . . 17% more than today. To sustain this growing population while raising the standard of living, the nation will require 40% more goods and services.

That's why last year Standard invested more than ever to help provide the future products for you and for the security of our country . . . and Standard will continue to invest, providing jobs and opportunities that can lead to a more abundant life for our nation and its people in the space age ahead.

Again last year Standard was one of the West's largest customers. Our purchases included 50,000 items . . . helped provide employment and payrolls for more than 10,000 large and small business firms in hundreds of Western communities.

Through affiliates we also helped advance progress in more than 70 friendly Eastern Hemisphere countries. Oil development helps local business, provides employment and supplies funds for education, health and housing.
