traffic. Up to 95% of the cost of the interstate road is borne by the Federal Government; the rest by the states. Twelfth District states, the west, which have 17% of the total United States mileage in the system, received 13% of the Federal funds allocated thru fiscal 1953. Thus far, 10.3% of allocated mileage is under way or completed in the District, compared with 10.8% in the nation as a whole. Although some individuals and communities will suffer economic losses from relocation of highways and facilities, the program should result in increased land values, revitalization of urban shopping centers, and better industrial and urban distribution patterns, as well as substantial reductions in accidents, time, and transportation costs estimated as a net saving of over $2 billion per year.

Highway Program Costs Huge Sums

In July 1956, with the signing of the Federal Aid Highway Act, the United States launched the most ambitious highway construction program in history, aiming toward the modernization of over

41,000 miles of trunk highways within the space of 13 years. According to the June issue of the Monthly Review, published today by the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, by 1972 we should have a network of controlled-access superhighways linking 90% of all cities with populations of over 50,000 and designed to handle 20% of total motor vehicle

Picture yourself in petroleum

Can you be dressed in oil? Certainly... from head to foot you can wear products that start with petroleum — even to perfume.

Petrochemicals are being put to almost endless uses — from lipstick to nylons, from detergents to vitamins. They dress you, help with the housework, keep you warm, protect your food, contribute to your recreation.

Standard pioneered in petrochemicals. From our millions of dollars invested in research came the basic chemicals for the first household and industrial detergents and the raw material for a new, miracle wrinkle-resistant fabric, creating whole new industries. As a major producer of the world's petrochemicals, our investment is continuing to provide new and better products for the benefit of everyone.

Petrochemicals are part of your life... clothing, blankets, rugs, upholstery fabrics... shoes, hats... cleansers, polishes... cosmetics, drugs, germicides... paint, printing ink, floor coverings... plastics, adhesives, packaging and photo film... racquet strings, phonograph records, fishing lines... and many other useful products.
