About 60 guests were present at the Father-Son banquet held in the Methodist church June 19. Those taking part in the entertainment which followed included Dick Skiles as master of ceremonies; a trumpet solo by Doug Dutton; Delores Belshee who sang "Pink Shoe Laces", and "Sugar-time"; Maurice Root, with a piano solo; Tony Copacci and Tom Coats in a horn duet; a trombone duet by Clyde Fridley and Larry Eddings; and a baton twirling exhibition by Jennette Belshee. Much merriment was provided when Jennette Belshee undertook the task of teaching baton twirling to Doug Reid, "in one easy lesson".

(Ouch, those broken fingers!!!) Encouraged by this example, Tony Copacci volunteered to teach Bob Nisbet to play the trumpet, "in one easy lesson". Everyone notes agreed that Bob produced notes never before heard on a trumpet. (Last reports were that all Wasco cats had fled!)
