Mr. and Mrs. Roy Belshes's house guests this past week were Mrs. Belshes's sister, Mrs. Wm. H. Hammond of Rocky Ford, Colorado, her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Arnett of Ryderwood, Wn., and niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Walin of Clatskanie. All spent the week end at the Barlow ranch home at the original townsite of Barlow, now owned by their cousin, Mr. Henry Page.

The old Barlow home still has many of its original furnishings, and arrangements are being made for the "Oregon Wagon Train" to encamp there on the old site as the home is to be exhibited as one of the centennial show places for Canby, Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Black stopped briefly in Moro Thursday morning while on their way from a visit with his son at Lone to their home at Beaverton. Mrs. Black is a sister of Giles French.

T. Lester Johnson had an encounter with a deer a short distance south of Moro one night this week. He was driving north on the highway when a deer jumped across the road just in time to be hit on a hind leg and knocked into the ditch. It recovered by the time Johnson and the driver of another car could get stopped to search for him.

Baskets of red roses decorated the hall, and the program covers, featuring roses against a blue background, all carried out the color theme of the incoming worthy matron, who plans to honor the offices of Adah and Electa during the year.

Interspersed throughout the installation ceremonies were musical interludes featuring a vocal number by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Fridley, Mrs. Tom Moore & Robt. Nisbet; a vocal solo by Leslie Martin of The Dalles; several piano numbers by Mrs. Chas. Neville of Corvallis, and a vocal solo by Mrs. Tom Moore. Susan Skiles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Skiles and Dean, Jim and Marcia Medler, children of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Medler, executed a dance number.

Following the short recess after the introduction of the installing officers, candlelighters, Betsy Bish and Peggy Byars, preceded a group called the "Rosettes," who carried the Bible and emblems. The Rosettes were Mrs. William Broughton, Mrs. Doug Shull, Mrs. John Hilderbrand, Mrs. Robt. Byars, Mrs. Gordon Hilderbrand and Mrs. Frank Reid.

After the installation and preceding the presentation of gifts and jewels, an addendum featuring a centennial theme was presented by the 1958-59 officers. Dainty lace bonnets and tiny flower-decked parasols contrasted with the black "derby" and mustache worn by the outgoing worthy patron, L. E. (Pat) Kaseberg.

A second addendum by the 1959-60 officers featured a drill and a rose covered arch through which the new worthy matron and patron were led, symbolizing their trip through the "west gate" on their way to the east, where they were given golden crowns and the worthy matron was clothed in a royal satin robe in her chosen colors of red and blue.

Refreshments of ice cream, cookies, coffee, tea and punch were served from tables centered with huge bowls of red roses from which a tiny fountain played, surrounded by a clever arrangement of flowers and candles in silver holders. Mrs. W. A. Nisbet was chairman of the refreshment committee. Hostesses at the tables were Mesdames Inez Sargent, Amelia Root, Idah Everett, Helen Bruckert, Mabel Haven, Mildred McDonald and Dorothy Dutton.

In charge of the guest book were Jeannette Belshes and Patty Byars; programs, Douglas Bish and Ronnie Johnson; gift table, Delor-
