Wasco News

By Pauline Broughton

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hilderbrand were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Richeiderfer when they flew to Madras in the Richeiderfer plane to attend a "Fly In" breakfast. Later, the two couples flew on to Redmond for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Cal Butler before returning to Wasco.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Tuggle, along with Mrs. Tuggle's mother, Mrs. Astrid Lahmann, and her nephews Bob, Tom and Bill Lahmann, enjoyed an outing recently at Lost Lake south of Hood River.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Anderson and children Linda and Scott of Portland, were weekend visitors in the Gordon Harper home. Little Linda stayed for a week's visit with her grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Winegar and daughters Ann, Cathie and Patti Sue returned Sunday from a ten day vacation near the coast. They visited Mrs. Winegar's sister and brother in law, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Haga at Coquille, then went on to camp near Siltcoos Lake in Siuslaw National Forest, but because of the chilly weather and the fog, they moved their camp to a spot near Coos Bay. Enroute home, they stopped at Independence for a look at the Centennial wagons there.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Royse and Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson drove to Portland Sunday to see the Portland Beaver baseball games against Salt Lake City. The Beavers won the first game, but dropped the second. The group was accompanied to Portland by the Royse's son, Everett, and Jim Duncan of Grass Valley. The boys took a bus on to Eugene, where they will spend this week attending a workshop for high school student body councils. Everett Royse is president, and Jim Duncan vice-president, of the Sherman high school student body for the coming year.

Sharon Laughlin, a recent graduate of University of Washington will leave soon for New York, where she will continue her study of drama and music in the pursuit of a career in the theatre.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Smith, who live on the Hilderbrand ranch, have lost a number of chickens in recent weeks to a badger. They finally shot the critter.

SHERMAN COUNTY FAIR

There are things more exciting to see than the exhibits of livestock at the Sherman County Fair, but there is nothing anywhere that brings the glow of satisfaction and inner contentment than the good stock always displayed and the kids showing their animals.

For the lover of good stock this show is a treat. The quality has been getting better each year until one wonders how it can possibly be improved the next year. But it is.

For the consumer, and who isn't, the sight of so much fine agricultural wealth is reassuring. It is security.

A fair is properly a place for the display of goods, a show place where the products of the land or factory are shown. We do it well, here in Sherman county. We always have fat steers that are the equal or better of those found anywhere; we have cookery to make the mouth water and displays of canning that are truly artistic.

A fair is assurance that the land has done well by us, carefully tended and skillfully worked, it has responded with bountiful and worthy crops and animals for our use.

This year it isn't going to cost anything to see it. There will be no charge at the main gate. Only at the grandstand will there be a charge and that will be a nominal $1.50. One can visit the barns, watch the judging, meet the visitors and the exhibitors, visit the pavilion where the household art is shown all for nothing.

There is no finer sight than the kids and calves at the Sherman county Fair when it is time for judging or parading.

We hope never to miss it
 This is not as much of a stock country as it was or will be and young exhibitors lead the return

This is the hundredth year of the settlement of Sherman County and the fiftieth year of the Sherman County Fair. It is therefore a year worthy of special attention to history and the fair. Be there.
