ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

The engagement of Miss Barbara Ann McIntyre, daughter of Neil McIntyre of Moro, Oregon, and Mrs. Josephine McIntyre of Richmond, California, to William George Kramer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen J. Kramer of Klamath Falls is announced.

Barbara is a graduate of Harry Ellis High School in Richmond, California. She is now attending the University of California at Davis.

Her fiance is a graduate of Sherman High School and is employed by Cushman Equipment of Moro.

A fall wedding is planned.

COUNTY RAMBLINS

For the past several years annual sheep shearing schools have been held throughout the state by industry and college representatives. Present plans are for three two-day schools at Corvallis in third full week in March. Tentative plans are being made for schools in Central and Southern Oregon.

Anyone interested may participate. Applications are needed by March 1. Minimum age is 15 yrs. Contacts should be made through the county agent's office over the state.

Livestock Shortcourse

Friday is the first day of the Sherman county livestock shortcourse. Farmers that were unable to attend the first session are invited to attend the remaining programs. Next week's program will cover "Physiology of Livestock Reproduction". Dr. Fred McKenzie, noted livestock physiologist, will be feature speaker.

Rodent Control

Fall and winter are good times to start a rodent control program. A rat can eat 50 pounds of grain a year and in the process will contaminate or damage another 100 to 500 pounds of grain. Rodent infested grains are likely subjected to seizure by regulations of the Federal Food and Drug Administration.

Here are some recommended rodent control methods: (1) Rat and mouse proof all places and points of entry. Close all openings with concrete or metal sheeting. (2) Eliminate existing and incoming rodents by poisoning, trapping, gassing. (3) Institute and maintain "good housekeeping" practices to reduce to a minimum the amount of food and shelter available. Give all possible assistance and encouragement to local, community or area-wide control programs.

Yellow Dwarf Disease

Heavy losses of grain, except corn, occurred from Yellow Dwarf virus disease of cereals in the Willamette Valley last year. Periodic inspections were made last year by Extension Pathologists, OSC, and the Sherman County Agent. Virus occurred in some areas, but no known losses occurred in this county.

The disease is spread by aphids. Aphids carry the virus from perennial grasses into grain fields and from there to other grain plants.

Entomologists and agronomists at Oregon State are working on this program. The former on insecticide controls for the aphids, and the latter working on breeding cereal varieties that are resistant to Yellow Dwarf.

Wasco News

By Pauline Broughton

A fire on Monday forenoon completely destroyed a brooder house and 400 baby chicks on the Tad McCoy ranch, occupied by the Bill Long family. The fire was believed to have started from a short in the wiring. The Wasco rural fire truck concentrated its efforts on keeping the fire from spreading to the dwelling.

Bradley James Barnett, who reached the ripe age of five years January 8, was honored by his mother, Mrs. Jerry Barnett, with a birthday party. Decorations carried out a circus motif that included a birthday cake bearing tiny figures of horses and clowns. Guests included Scotty Miller, Kenny Wallace, Denise and Gary Shull, Danny and Donald Hilderbrand, Jeannene Rich, Dee Van Gilder, Leslye, Leesa and Jon Richelderfer, Gail Gosson, and Annette Nisbet. Also present were several of the mothers who assisted Mrs. Barnett. They were Mrs. Gordon Hilderbrand, Mrs. Robert Nisbet, Mrs. Lloyd Gosson, Mrs. Dave Miller and Mrs. Doug Shull. Following a play period the guest of honor opened his gifts, and prizes were awarded the little guests, after which refreshments of cake, ice cream and punch were served.

The Tuesday club met last week with Mrs. Mabel Haven for an afternoon of bridge. Present were Mrs. Hugh White, Mrs. Hildred Zell and Mrs. Roland Johnson. Mrs. Zell won the prize for high score, after which refreshments were served by the hostess.

Miss Betty Haven, accompanied by a trio of friends, drove up from Portland Sunday for a short visit with her mother, Mrs. Mabel Haven and sister, Mary Ann. There will be a Pollo clinic in Wasco the morning of January 20 from 11 a. m. to 12 noon, at the Wasco grade school. The Rebekah lodge will also have a bake sale that day.

At a meeting of the Wasco grade school PTA last Thursday, Dr. Frank Reid spoke on Preventive Dentistry for Children. A committee, consisting of Mrs. Robert Nisbet, Mrs. Larry Eddings, and Mrs. Rex Kaseberg, was appointed to investigate the possibility of using a crossing guard at the highway crossing. Before the meeting closed, each one present was asked to write on a slip of

Fewer Hogs for 1960

Oregon Farm and Market Outlook information was mailed to Sherman county farmers last week. The report revealed farmers' intentions to farrow 12% fewer sows than last winter and spring. The changed pork supply prospects also suggest that cattle prices will remain higher than expected earlier. The "perhaps" signal indicates fed cattle prices and beef at retail will stay close to late 1959 levels instead of working lower as had been expected. Sherman farmers might find this a good time to purchase swine breeding stock or feeder pigs since it is assumed the end of the low pig cycle has been reached.

paper his or her suggestion for programs to be instituted during the remainder of the year.

The Wasco fire department held its annual party Saturday night at the Legion hall. Entertainment was provided by several tables of pinocle and bingo, as well as a pool table. Al Dormaier won the turkey at the drawing. At midnight a buffet dinner of roast turkey and "trimmings" was served to the approximately 30 who were present.

The MYF group of the Wasco Methodist church is planning an African dinner Jan. 24 at the church. The young people will attire themselves in typical African garb and feast on peanut loaf and other appropriate African dishes. The idea stems from the fact that January is Missionary Month, and the group study has been on Africa and its customs. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Van Gilder were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sargent.

January 31 there will be a pot luck dinner at 1 p. m., following morning worship at Wasco Methodist church. During the afternoon the Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Goodenberger from the Moro Community Presbyterian church

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for their kind expressions of sympathy in our recent bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brown will be guest speakers and will show slides of their former missionary work.

Mrs. Esther Stanley was returned to The Dalles hospital last week. Mrs. Idah Everett, who entered Mid-Columbia hospital last week, is improving. Ray Holloway, who was hospitalized some two weeks ago following a stroke, has shown signs of improvement. Mrs. Elva Dehler was quite ill at her home last week with an attack of the flu. Mrs. Eari Richelderfer has also been a hospital patient.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Richelderfer at The Dalles January 8. The Richelderfers have three other children, two girls and a boy. The new young man has been named Karl Asa, and weighed in at slightly over 9 pounds.

The Wasco Methodist WSCS will meet Jan. 20 in the church social rooms. Mrs. Paulen Kaseberg will review the recent best seller "Dear and Glorious Physician", by Taylor Caldwell. The story is based on the life of Luke. Mrs. Betty McLennen from Naples, Florida, arrived last week to visit her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Striker, and her sister, Mrs. David Richelderfer. The Strikers have both recently been hospitalized, and Mr. Striker was reported not quite so well this week.

The Tailoring Workshop, sponsored by the Sherman County Home Extension unit, began in Wasco on Tuesday at the Wasco Methodist church. Project leaders from Rufus, Wasco and Moro will attend the six weeks' training course given by Miss Carol Armstrong. Project leaders are Mrs. Deimer Smith, Mrs. Bill Field, Mrs. Frank Reid, Mrs. Paulen Kaseberg, Mrs. Orlow Martin, Ms. Paul Fraser and Mrs. Terry Bucholtz.
