philosophy of materialism which Karl Marx gave such a boost because he never could make a living at anything. That is the philosophy that elevates the stomach over the spirit, the belly over the brain.

Sure, E. A., the freedom to starve is a real one. Without the freedom to starve there can be no freedom to succeed, no opportunity to do things for oneself. The nation, therefore, loses the fresh approaches of the brave and adventurous, and becomes stale and stodgy for where there is no reward for thinking there is none and the end is a dismal drabness. If Americans are to be men they will welcome the adventure of living and accept the penalties of failure; if they are to be steers in a feed lot they will think only of a manger full of grain. Take your pick.

15-acre farmer. When acreage restriction started it was 18 percent, now it is 38 percent and the nation still grows 50 million acres of wheat. The big, efficient, commercial farmer is getting choked to death.

Incidentally the vote was 111 for and 11 against in this county.

MOVE OVER MR. SMITH

Whoever arranged for Elmo Smith to appear on television with his opponent has a great deal to learn. The man didn't have a chance and newspapers so reported it.

Mr. Smith is an aggressive, strong, active and informed citizen with positive ideas. He has long experience in public affairs. He would represent Oregon ably in the senate.

Right now his opponents are criticizing Smith for his NO vote on HJM3 in the 1949 session. It seems entirely possible that any vote against the United Nations will be hailed as long distance wisdom in a few years but that is another matter.

Back in 1949 the writer also

...let First National help you enjoy it!

School time is exciting, for kids and parents alike. Here in Oregon, there is added satisfaction in the knowledge that our school systems offer educational standards among the best in the nation.

Good teachers know that family habits are reflected in children's habits. That's one of the many good reasons it is important to cultivate the savings habit. If you save regularly, your children will grow up believing it is the right thing to do. The result can be a life of safety and security—the most important legacy for any child.

Make money handling a part of your children's education now. Open savings accounts in their names, at your nearby First National Branch.

FREEDOMS

An editor of the Medford Mail Tribune, signing himself as E. A., which should make him Eric Allen, wrote an editorial in August in which he inquires rhetorically "What freedom have you lost lately?"

It was his contention that conservatives in arguing against the new deal cited loss of freedoms without being specific as what ones.

It is true that the growth of populations limits the freedoms of any individual. That is natural and cannot be helped. But the growth of government under the new deal type of thinking has limited freedoms must faster than the increased population would make necessary.

E. A. does admit that he has noticed the loss of the freedom to spend his own money which is important but less so than others.

He mentions the freedom to starve to death in old age. That is certainly a lost freedom and a very important one. The freedom to fail is necessary to the freedom to succeed. No people can be free unless some can fail, no society can make progress unless the unfit and unworthy can fail. On the other side there must be rewards for the successful.

We are so bound by laws and union regulations that a man can hardly tell whether he is a success or a failure. A boy starts school at six and barring deliberate refusal to cooperate is graduated at eighteen from high school. He gets a job and if he pays his union dues he keeps it until social security retires him. Thousands of such persons have insufficient freedom to tell whether they are a success or a failure. They never tried.

Without the freedom to die broke man becomes like a barnyard animal fed by the solicitous hand of the master. That is the

BE INFORMED

Quoting the Oregon Statesman of Salem:

"Giles French writes in his Sherman County Observer (sic) that he would like to see an informed discussion about the comparative situation of farmers with more acreage restriction and present prices or full use of land and market prices. Do not the wheat growers themselves register their opinion when they vote regularly for continued acreage allotment and higher parity price support? How did the Sherman County growers vote Giles?"

No, Charlie, the vote held each summer is not a fair indicator of farmer opinion. Farmers only vote for continuance of parity prices—or that part of parity price set by the government—or the market price which would probably be less.

They have no chance to vote on acreage restriction, loan policy, or the whole program. They vote to continue the pay end. Farmers know they are losing out to the

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsa

No News Like True News

Nothing makes a newspaper editor happier than a "scoop." But it seems to me some editors overdo it now and then.

Last week, for example, an editor claimed his paper was the first in his city to report the Mayor's "impending retirement." But, judging from the next day's edition of the same paper, the Mayor had other ideas.

As a result, the lead editorial in that newspaper then started off like this: "We are glad to be the first paper in the city to inform our public that the story of the Mayor's retirement is just a rumor."

From where I sit, facts and truth always win out, no matter how you disguise them. That goes for newspapers as well as for neighbors. For instance, your choice of beverage may be a glass of iced tea . . . mine is an occasional glass of beer. Now each of us could make up quite a "story" about which of us is right. But the fact is we're both right—now let's just respect each other's point of view.
