SHAME, SHAME

An officer of a barge company protesting the reduced rate of the railroad says that it would break the barge company if it had to haul for the same price as the railroads propose.

We think that is an admission of managerial inability. If a man can't compete when the government pays for his right-of-way and when his terminal facilities are largely paid for by the public and when he escapes most of his normal property taxes, he must be a poor manager.

It looks like barge transportation should be the cheapest ever, but it isn't as presently managed. Yet, the barge companies do grow and do pay dividends and do buy bigger equipment thus giving all the appearance of prosperity. But they never reduce rates of their own volition.

Barge lines pay nothing for use of the river which the federal government keeps open and constantly improves with locks and channel improvement. Barge lines seldom own any warehouses. The people pay for them, too, either as port commissions or elevators. In Oregon barge lines have been remarkably adept at evading property taxes, only now and then can the legislature pass a bill to catch them and then it may be soon repealed.

They should be ashamed of their inefficiency.

MARKET CRASH

The stock market fell Monday by more points than for some five years and the presence of Khrushchev was given as the reason. We don't think so. The reason the stock market fell was simply because it was too high, has been too high and will have to drop before it will be healthy. It is not natural for proper that bonds should be higher than stocks, by higher we mean offer bigger interest rates.

American business cannot make enough money to sustain the present price of stocks. One of the reasons is inflation which has caused so much business to go abroad. Our steel mills are running at around sixty percent capacity while ships pour steel into the United States from Europe where the price is lower. Many firms are building plants abroad because money is worth more there. Under such circumstances it is lucky we have any market at all. Which makes it more strange that Kennedy should ask for more of the same.

MARKET CRASH

MUSEUM PIECE

We hope that when Sherman County gets around to stocking a museum of historical machinery once used in developing the area, that along with the Casady plow, the right-lap, the Haines center drive header, the Bain wagon, that a low down tank pump is also included.

Now a four barreled tank pump was no mechanical marvel. It was simple enough that a water buck soon learned to take it apart on the darkest night to get the gravel from under the iron valves, but with 20 feet of suction hose attached to it and wrapped around the round water tank it was a useful bit of farm equipment.

Folks hauled water, yes, actually hauled water, all the water they had after the dim little spring dried up in March. After that the water for wash day, for the plow team, for the mulch cow and the hogs came out of that ever empty hose on the tail end of a water tank that had to be filled at a distant well. And the tank pump, the low-down pump with the long wooden handle, polished by the rough hand of the farmer, pulled the water into the tank.

Not everyone had to haul water, many had a well. But it took quite a well to supply the needs, eye demands, of 40 head of work horses, a few dozen cattle, the other livestock and a family. In harvest all the water a threshing outfit used was hauled by team and wagon from the most convenient water hole or well, two rigs being used to provide the water.

Hauling water for a threshing outfit was a job that required some knowledge of the country and the available water, the easiest place to open a fence and a certain ability at larceny. Some farmers provided water for threshermen unwillingly. Because it was necessary to have water always available for the steam engine and for the horses at stated times, the water buck had to go after a tank as soon as the old one was empty no matter what time of day or night.

Certainly an old water wagon with its low-down pump would be a necessity for any well equipped museum of the dry country for it would be remindful of a way of living now long gone—and thankfully.

Howard Belton

Governor Hatfield when talking about Howard Belton, Republican candidate for treasurer, last Saturday said Mr. Belton was 67 and was both physically and mentally strong and active and, intimated the governor, probably stronger than any in his audience.

That was perhaps a natural reaction for a man around 40, who might be inclined to think that a man of 67 should be in a permanent and fatal decline. As for us we do not think it remarkable that Mr. Belton is in good condition. He has been active so long his momentum will carry him for a long time and he has never had time for bad habits.

Voters seldom get an opportunity to vote for such a man as Belton. He is dedicated to public service, has served long and faithfully and capably in the legislature, knows the state's business in and out and will do just exactly what he thinks is best. For our side we would rather have him handling our public money than to be doing it ourselves.

HOWARD BELTON

Grass Valley

Mr. and Mrs. Don Keiper of Eugene are the parents of a daughter Patricia Anne, born August 25. The baby weighed four pounds and eleven ounces. Mr. and Mrs. Keiper were former teachers in the Grass Valley school.

Mrs. Frances Mathews left Saturday for her home in Seattle after spending a week here with her mother, Mrs. T. M. Rolfe.

Mrs. Claus Bardenhagen returned home Sunday from Portland where she spent a week on business and visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Ward.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Young left Saturday for California after spending the summer here.

Clothing Needed For Overseas Help

Overseas, literally millions of men, women and children are in desperate want for clothing—refugees, victims of war or of natural or economic disasters. For most of them, the clothing sent by American Christians is their only source of supply.

To relieve suffering among these pitifully impoverished, our churches need more than 10 million pounds of good used clothing this year.

And this will only begin to meet the actual need.

Only you can reach into your closet to let your idle clothing help in this compassionate ministry giving warmth and hope and courage to the near-naked and despairing.

Will you?

Harvey-Watkins

At a double ring ceremony performed Sunday, Sept. 4, 2:00 p. m., at The Dalles First Methodist Church, Miss Phyllis Karen Watkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Watkins of Wasco, became the bride of Delbert Leon Harvey of Medford, Oregon; the service being read by the Rev. Larry Eddings of Wasco.

Preceding the ceremony, Sandra Reed of Portland, a sorority sister, sang "Because" and at the close, she sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk mist taffeta. The scalloped neckline and wrist-length tapered sleeves of Swiss guipure lace were enriched by sequins and rhinestones, above the natural waistline. A "V" inset panel of lace extended from the waist front to the floor and a wide band of lace completely encircled the full skirt with chapel length train. Her pouf ballerina veil of heathcote illusion fell from a seed pearl crown accented with drop rhinestones. She carried a cascade bouquet of feathered carnations, stephanotis and white roses.

The carried an heirloom handkerchief that was first carried by her great-grandmother, Andrea Rasch, when married in 1887 in Bornholm, Denmark. This great-grandmother is living at Redmond at 93. The maternal grandmother, Ethel Strong, The Dalles, when married in 1916 at Cottage Grove and the mother of the bride, Heien Watkins, when married this same date in 1938 at Moro, Ore.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Shirley Watkins, her sister. Her short dress of romance blue danstite taffeta was fashioned with a "V" cut scoop neckline, fitted midriff and full skirt with a blending romance blue velvet "V" inset skirt front panel. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gladiolus centered with white roses.

The bridesmaid was Beneva Bader of Portland (born and reared Greece) and the junior bridesmaid was Sandra Foss of Wasco, a cousin of the bride. Both were attired identical to the maid of honor.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merlyn Harvey of Medford, chose his brother, Gene Harvey, to be his best man. Honorary attendants for the groom were Bob Jones of Myrtle Creek and John Connolly of Medford. Ushers were Don Wilson of Medford, Orville Blaylock of Grass Valley, Lee Kaseberg, Terry Kaseberg, Michael Foss, all cousins of the bride and Robert Hastings of Wasco.

Mrs. Sherry Jacques Sullivan, sorority sister of the bride and Gwen Merrifield, both from Portland, were candlelighters, wearing white sheath dresses. The tapers they carried were decorated with rhinestone corsages of blue and white glads.

The sanctuary was beautifully decorated with white glads, pon pon mums, roses, romance blue bows and flowing blue ribbon streamers.

The bride's mother was gowned in a sheath dress of pale almond with matching shoes, hat and gloves. Her jewelry and brasso orchid corsage were in shades of gold. Mrs. Harvey's street-length gown was of beige lace with neutral colored accessories, and wore a corsage of cypripedium orchids in green and white.

Mrs. Sally Fields Brown of The Dalles was in charge of the guest book, "Wedding Memories." Receiving wedding gifts at church door was Gwen Birkland of Medford.

A reception in the fellowship hall of the church followed the ceremony. A four tiered wedding cake with white swan cononnades was richly decorated and topped with traditional bride and groom figures standing in an archway studded with seed pearls and rhinestones.

Cutting and serving the cake were the bride's aunt, Mrs. John Foss of Wasco and the bride's great-aunt, Mrs. Hazel Simpson of Portland. Presiding at the tea and coffee service were Mrs. Paulen Kaseberg, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Melvin Walsh, Los Angeles. Mrs. Leonard Fields and Miss Alice Kaseberg, cousin of bride, served the punch. Girls assisting about the room wore miniature cocktail aprons of romance blue trimmed in white. They were Barbara Brooks of Portland, a sorority sister, Mrs. Larry Kaseberg of Wasco, Sylvia Baker and Gwen Birkland of Medford. Miss Sharon Roberts of Medford played an accordion during the reception.

The bride is graduate of Sherman High School, Northwest School of Commerce, and attended Oregon State college two years. She is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority; member of Annie Fulton chapter OES, and was employed at the Sherman Cooperative Grain Growers this past summer.

Mr. Harvey graduated from Medford High School and Modern Barber School in Portland. He is a member of Order of the Arrow, De Molay, Southern Oregon Timmering Assn., and the Medford Accordion Club. He is presently employed at Daves' Ye Olde Barber Shop in Medford, where the couple will make their home, following a honeymoon trip.

For going away, Mrs. Harvey chose a light charcoal colored tailored suit of imported wool. Her gloves were white, shoes, bag and hat were black. The hat was small with entrancing white bees attached to the black veil. She wore a corsage of Phenopsis orchids.

Grandparents of the bride in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Everett Watkins and Mrs. Ethel Strong all of The Dalles, the groom's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Nettie McKenzie of Bieber, California.

Out of town guests, in addition to relatives and friends, previously mentioned were Tommy Harvey of Medford; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Palo, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kaseberg, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Powell, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Fletcher and John Sullivan of Portland; Kevin and John, Robert Goza of Palo Alto, Calif.; Melvin Walsh of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. John DeMoss of Phoenix, Ariz.; Mr. and Mrs. Art Chamness of Madras, Mr. and Mrs. George Harris of Walla Walla; Mr. and Mrs. Art Watkins, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Spaulding Jr. and daughter, Janice, all of Heppner.

4-H CLUB NEWS

The first of September, three 4-H Hi-Yu Horse Club members journeyed to the State Fair at Salem, with their leaders and parents.

John DeMoss, Sharon Coelsch, and Paulette Willis, were entered in the Junior, Intermediate, and Senior divisions of Horsemanship and Showmanship, respectively.

John DeMoss won a blue ribbon in Junior Showmanship and a white in Horsemanship.

Sharon Coelsch won State Intermediate champion trophy for 4-H Showmanship and a blue in 4-H English Riding.

Paulette Willis won a blue ribbon in 4-H Senior Horsemanship, but was ill the next day and could not show in Senior Showmanship.

Each of the classes were extremely large with none having less than thirty-five horses and riders in each class and the Intermediate Showmanship had fifty.

As this was the first time any 4-H horse members had gone to State from Sherman County, we are very proud of our club and hope to keep up the good work for another year.

The Hi-Yu 4-H Horse Club members met at the fairgrounds for over a week before the fair, to practise a drill for the fair viewers. Members of the How-dee Horse Club of Kent met with us. Both clubs practised the drill making sixteen members in the drill with a couple of standbys to fill in, in case of illness. Horsemanship and showmanship were practised at each of these meetings also.

Every participant was on his toes and put the drill on to the satisfaction of the crowds both Saturday and Sunday.

This year the judging was done on the point system, which is being done more at the fairs. Thus the high point from each division going to State.
