Wasco Wesleyan group was very poorly attended. The group that did brave the elements reported a very nice evening, however. Those making the trip were, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Pshigoda, the Reverend and Mrs. Larry Eddings and Rollie Bolen.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hilderbrand and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Byars visited in Yakima Sunday.

A group of Boy Scouts with their leader, Eldon Lane, planned a hike and cookout on Sunday, which was marred somewhat by the high wind in the afternoon. The boys were taken by car to the Hay Canyon elevator, and started the hike from there. At 4:30 parents in cars met the group along the Condon highway and it was decided to call a halt to the hike.

Ort Olsen of Goldendale was a business visitor in Moro Tuesday. He is the owner of Olsen's Pontiac Co. in that city.

Grain Profiteering Brings Jail Terms

A one-time regional director of the federal Commodity Stabilization Service was given a two-year prison term in Portland Monday for profiteering in grain storage contracts.

He is Earl C. Corey, who was convicted on two counts of conspiracy and another of conflict of interest.

Receiving the same prison sentence was Lawrence C. Smith of Waterville, Wash., a partner in the venture. Attorneys for Corey and Smith said they will appeal. Still pending is a government suit to recover $249,000 paid to the Three State Warehouse Co., in which Corey was convicted of being a silent partner. But the firm has filed another suit seeking $100,000 from the government.

Charles and Helen Ruggles of Heppner visited with the Lamer Sayers family last weekend. They are now visiting the Seral Searcy in Portland.

Mrs. Elsie Jones is on vacation from the postoffice this week. The family will spend Thanksgiving in Alice, when they will see their new granddaughter.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gilman and daughter, Barbara, were in Hood River county Sunday taking in the special deer hunt. Sunday was the closing date on deer hunting in Oregon for the year.

Tuberculin Skin Tests

Chances are very slight that the germs will cause an active case of TB, but the positive reaction is a warning sign. Annual chest x-rays will assure the reactor that his lungs are still healthy.

An x-ray will show lung damage only after the disease has progressed to a stage where active TB is a menace to the individual and his family. A negative skin test assures the individual that he is not in any immediate danger of TB. An annual chest x-ray is still recommended as a double check and to be sure the chest area is free of other disease, such as cancer or cardiac conditions.

All schools will be participating in the tuberculin testing program. School programs that involve TB control are becoming increasingly popular throughout the state. Participating schools will receive a tuberculin control award certificate indicating grades participating and percentage of enrollment receiving tests. The certificate will be signed by the state department of health and education and is suitable for framing.

For the teacher the TB testing programs provide opportunities to educate children in better health practices. The school administration is particularly interested in preventing the spread of disease and in early detection of potential reservoirs of disease. For the student TB testing is a matter of assuring himself that he is free of a communicable disease that could incapacitate him.

The private physician supports school and community TB testing because it will reveal cases of TB and bring them to early treatment.

The official and voluntary health agencies are concerned with follow-up of the patient, to be sure he is cured and does not remain a health menace to his family and the public.

According to Ambrose Churchill, M. D., tuberculosis control officer with the state board of health, the death rate from TB has decreased from 222 deaths per 100,000 population in 1947 to 3.9 in 1959 due to improved treatment methods, drugs and case-finding. Dr. Churchill reminds us that the number of cases for 1959 totaled 560 and for 1947 there were 879. "There is still a large potential reservoir to be uncovered. Constant checking by skin tests and x-rays will find those infected and bring them to the attention of physicians."

All residents are urged to take advantage of the preventive health opportunity. Control of TB in the community is accomplished only when infectious cases are found and brought to treatment. The sooner a case is found and treated, the sooner the individual concerned can return to his activities of daily living. There is less opportunity for him to expose members of his family or community to this disabling disease.

Recreation Values In Water Resource Told By Ex-Rec. President

Marshall N. Dana, Portland, a past president of the National Reclamation Association, addressing the group's 29th convention in Bakersfield, Calif., said reclamationists should recognize especially the importance of recreation values in water resource development.

"We have long spoken of multiple use in the development of land and water projects and in river basin programs," he said. "Recreation must be added to multiple use. In doing so, attention is directed to another urgent requirement — multiple responsibility."

Recreation is big, big business, Dana said, and this is a powerful motive "for being philosophic about the frictional contacts between reclamation and recreation." He added:

"The most conservative estimates place the money value of the recreation industry at better than $30 billion a year. This breaks down not only into gas and tries, but into consumption of irrigated land products through patronage of eating places and markets.

"When I say that the average cost of a sport-caught fish is $1.87 a pound, one begins to realize what good spenders the recreationists are. The spending for recreation is three times the interest we pay on our national indebtedness. It is two-thirds of our spending for national defense. It is 15 times the spending of the government for reclamation since 1902.

"And the inclusion of reasonable fees for the enjoyment of recreational facilities that represent an added cost in water development projects will add no unjust burden to the recreationists in their multi-billion dollar spending."

WEATHER REPORT

Rain measured the past week at the Sherman Branch Expt. Station totaled .25 inches. This brings the months total just over a half inch. Normal for November is 1.71 inches.

Total for the calendar year is now 8.13 inches. This is more than last year's total for the 12 months of 8.08. The two years combined are not as much as has some times been received in one year.

ALL BANKS IN OREGON TO CLOSE SATURDAYS BEGINNING JANUARY 21, 1961

Five-day week to be observed by Banks throughout State

Beginning with Saturday, January 21, 1961, all banks in Oregon will observe a five-day banking week, Monday through Friday. The new five-day banking policy is in keeping with the prevailing practice of banks nationally, and is virtually universal in the Western states.

Additional hours of banking service on Fridays or other week days will be provided by many of the undersigned banks to fit the needs of their communities.

Perhaps the main consideration in establishing a regular five-day week was the wishes of bank employees. Under present conditions many families with both husband and wife employment impossible to spend their weekends together. Then, too, a system of staggered days off during the week has made it difficult to maintain the continuity of service you should expect.

In addition to extended Friday hours, such other services as bank-by-mail, 24-hour depositories, speedy bank-from-your-car facilities, etc., are available to make five-day banking suit your requirements.

Your bank will appreciate having you discuss with them any special problems you feel that you might have in connection with the Saturday closing.
