For the future a Valentine party is planned for Feb. 6.

The hair stylist from The Dalles was to visit our club today at 4:00 o'clock but couldn't make it because of bad weather. Since he didn't make it the girls participated in sports in the gym.

Refreshments were served following the close of the meeting.

(One out of 647,700) of Oregon's wage-earners—mildly stimulated by our recent ads—had this to say:

"Words, words, words! Sure, let's tell the world about Oregon. But while you're sweet-talking new industry into the state, let's don't forget our Oregon job-makers like the guys I work for. Why dontcha' run an ad saluting my company? Look, in just 12 short years, we've....."

Your company probably is, too. No matter what size, every company plays an important role in Oregon's continued growth. Just for fun, here are three interesting for-instances:

Omark Industries, Milwaukie. Founded in 1947 with four employees in the founder's basement. They now have more than 500 employees and make about 3/4 of all the world's sawchain, as well as related products.

Lamb-Weston Inc., Weston. Founded in 1934, they pioneered "Shelled-at-the-Plant" pea handling and dehydro-freezing of peas, carrots, and diced potatoes, and extended agricultural output. Current peak employment is 1000—exactly double the number of employees in 1955.

Holiday House Inc., Medford. Started in late 1959 with nothing more than an idea on how to make better vacation-type travel trailers. By the end of 1960, they employed 85 people and are starting production of an all fiberglass model.

Before you are tempted to sit down and write an irate letter asking why we didn't mention your great company, let us point out that these three firms were picked at random by Gus, our statistician. He picked them out of his Stetson with his eyes shut. But each of the unchosen ones—nonetheless—is an essential partner in the future of Oregon.

Cut this ad out and make a few points with your Boss. If you've got two Bosses (shudder), call your Telephone Business Office and we'll send you additional copies. And now, we'd better get back to work. Our phone is ringing.
