George Johnson didn't hate the Pope. Indeed, he held the head of the Catholic Church in high esteem as a leader in the spheres of morality, world peace and human rights.

But nobody could convince George Johnson that the Holy Father had any special authority to speak officially for Christ. Where in the Bible, George wanted to know, is there any mention of such a person as a Vicar of Christ? Where in Holy Scripture does Our Lord delegate any of His authority to a single human being?

It was not until he read, and read again, the words of Jesus to Peter (Matthew 16:18-19) that George Johnson began to understand the Catholic claim of papal authority.

"And I say unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." "And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven."

The Catholic claim concerning the authority of the Pope does not depend solely, of course, upon this or other significant passages of Holy Scripture. For the Vicarship of the Pontiffs had been universally recognized throughout Christendom long before the books of the Bible had been gathered together, and several centuries before the Church had officially selected the writings which were to be regarded as inspired.

But for the benefit of those who wish to weigh the Catholic claim in the light of the Bible, we respectfully suggest that they do as

George Johnson did—read and read again Our Lord's words to Peter, "And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven..."

For is it not a clear delegation of His authority when Christ tells Peter: "... whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven..."? For a long time George Johnson had believed Our Lord's reference to "this rock" meant Peter's faith and not Peter's person. But now he saw in the Savior's words a specific command to exercise specific powers of judgment, which had to be an act of Peter the man.

A highly interesting and authoritative story of the origin of the papacy... the reasons why Catholics believe as they do concerning the Pope... a brief but exciting history of the Popes since the time of Peter, the first Pontiff—all these and many other interesting facts are contained in a pamphlet which we will gladly send to you free on request. We will mail it in a plain wrapper and nobody will call on you. Mail coupon today. Ask for Pamphlet No. KC-11.

Rufus News

By Mrs. George Fox

Mr. and Mrs. George Fox spent the weekend of Sept. 29 seeing the World Fair in Seattle. They met their son George Jr. who was having his vacation, in Gresham and he accompanied them to Seattle where they were guests of Mrs. Fox' brother Ray Williams. At the end of the first day their feet and legs were killing them. The second day after changing shoes Mrs. Fox complained of a blistered heel. George Fox Jr. couldn't stay out of the Science Pavilion, Nasa, Colosium 21 and Science and Industry buildings. They enjoyed seeing all the foreign country exhibits, going up into the Space Needle, Wax Works and riding the Monorail to downtown Seattle. When first arriving they took an escorted tour of the grounds to see where everything was and decide what to see, as you can't see everything in two days. The crowds were supposed to be thinning out but both days there were 74 thousand people, some on crutches, wheel chairs, carting children around, nothing was too much effort. It was a wonderful sight, even though so tiring. There were plenty of benches for resting and with the Food Fair center you could select food from any country. Also there were American restaurants on the grounds with prices no higher than any other like it in Seattle. It was a trip worth while and we were glad to be there.

On the way to Portland we stopped to see the capitol of Washington at Olympia. It was beautiful with walls and floors all gray and white marble. Washington boasts of one of the nicer capitol buildings. Then a tour of the Olympia Brewing company was quite interesting noting the immaculate condition the factory operates under. The company makes guest welcome, and while we were there a bus load of people came to tour the buildings.

We arrived that evening and had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wensel, and also got our first view of our new grandchild, Martin James, who was born in July in California. Then George and I were overnight guests of a brother, Charles Williams and family who live at Milwaukie. Seems like everywhere we go in that country and around Seattle there are freeways buzzing cars come back and forth, in and out, so that it is a pleasure to just get

WANTED BY THE FBI

Donald Leroy Payne

Payne, one of the FBI's "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives" and a vicious rapist and parolee with a history of foul sex offenses since 1937, is charged with raping a Houston, Texas, girl on July 10, 1959. Posing as manager of a dance troupe and using an alias, he allegedly raped the 18-year-old professional dancer after entering her residence on the pretext of offering her a job and threatening to strangle her if she resisted. He has also been charged with a vicious sex attack on a 12-year-old Houston boy.

A Federal warrant, issued at Houston on September 2, 1959, charges Payne with unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for rape. His prior convictions include jail break and rape and sex perversion on women and children.

A white American, born on July 19, 1918, at Haskell, Oklahoma, he is 5'10" tall, weighs approximately 140 pounds, has a slender build, ruddy complexion, and brown, receding hair. He has worked as a newspaper solicitor, fry cook, farm hand, laundry worker, machinist, salesman, and tailor. Payne, once described by a judge as a dangerous man who "would not hesitate to kill," has a large scar on his right index finger, a scar on his forehead and a hernia scar. He bears a birthmark on his right elbow and a tattoo of two hearts, a wreath and the word "Christine" on his right forearm. Consider extremely dangerous. Please immediately notify the nearest FBI office of any information concerning his whereabouts. WFO 650672-28 party Oct. 20. Also the potluck dinners will start with the next meeting Oct. 18. For the lecturer's hour Mrs. Johnson had a guessing game of all different kinds of seeds, which a lot of fun.

Mrs. Otto Peterson served refreshments after the meeting. The Home E club met Oct. 11 the hall with a no lost potluck luncheon.

Mrs. Bill Macnao president of the St. Mary's Altar Society announces there will be a food sale Oct. 18, Thursday at 10 a. m. at the City Hall. The group is selling Christmas cards and wish for anyone wanting cards to contact members.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fox Jr. and sons Lawrence and Martin, arrived in Rufus Thursday to spend a few days with relatives living here. George is on a two week vacation from his work at National Aeronautics Space Administration at Sunnyvale, Calif., Saturday evening they were guests for dinner at Mr. and Mrs. James W. Fox at their rancia home. Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Earl Weatherford and five children from Olex were dinner guests of the elder George Fox and joined Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Fox Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. James W. Fox for a family dinner and reunion. Monday the George Fox Jr. left for California.

The rain started to fall here Monday and kept it up until Tuesday afternoon. This rain will make the fall seeding of wheat safe and will insure that the grasslands will have enough moisture to make their growth. As it was with the other rain we got, the moisture just went down about two inches into the earth, then there was a dry spot of about six inches until the earth moisture began underneath. With shallow planting when the grain went through the top moisture it would die when it could go no further.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fox learned their granddaughter, Nancy Foote of Corvallis fell from a stool at home and broke her wrist which is now in a sling.
