

Moro Personals

The University of Oregon's fall term, 1962 honor roll includes the names of 360 undergraduates who made grade point averages of 3.50 or higher. Among them was Ronda Rae Fraser, daughter of Mr and Mrs Paul Fraser.

The men who live in the Sannico Hotel are thankful for the generosity of the people of Moro who sent them a box of presents for Christmas. The box was accumulated at Beefo's where every one interested dropped in his presents until it was full and another had to be provided.

BORN: To Dr. and Mrs. Robt. Cockburn of Portland, January 9, a daughter, Bridgette, following two brothers. Mrs. Cockburn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Douma, now moved to Portland to care for the grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Reid were up from The Dalles Tuesday to visit the son, Frank at the dental office.

Bob Bernards is home this week after a few days spent in Portland for an examination of his ears. He expects to have a hearing aid soon that will make him hear easier and better.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Belshe are on the road to Hawaii with the party of grangers that makes a tour each winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Collis Moore left for California Thursday morning, going by way of Reno, in order to (so Collis says) make expenses for the trip.

Mr. Alice Archer is the chairman for the Moro district for the March of Dimes, her name being inadvertently omitted last week.

The previously announced Red Cross First Aid class will start at the court house January 22 at 8 o'clock. All interested are invited to come.

Harlandview Grange meeting will be January 28 instead of Jan. 21. A special program, featuring an IFYE student will be given.

The Moro Tuesday afternoon unit of Cooperative Extension Service met with Mrs. Max Belshe. An interesting program on "How the Personality Works in Understanding Behavior" given by Mrs. Blaine Miller was appreciated and discussed for better understanding.

During social hour lovely refreshments were served by the hostess to 14 members.

Kay Kirkle of Moro is one of 15 Oregon State University senior coeds who has been honored for outstanding campus achievements by the Corvallis Branch of the American Association of University Women.

Miss Kirkle, who will graduate this June in the School of Education, was honored for her leadership in education. Her home address is P. O. Box 273, Moro, Oregon.

AAUW makes the selections each winter to recognize outstanding women students.

Jim Woods, accompanied by his daughter and grand daughter stopped in Moro briefly Wednesday while on their way home from the funeral of his brother Ellsworth, held in Pendleton.

The Wasco Women's Study club met at the home of Mrs. Durward Kaseberg with Mrs. Roy Shafer and Mrs. Vernon Dutton assisting with the dessert luncheon. After a short business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Grace Medler in the absence of Mrs. Martin Pshigoda, Mrs. Astrid Tuggle gave a most interesting program in fine arts. Mrs. Lillie Fields presented the club with a history of the club which she had compiled from its beginning to the present. Lee Kaseberg entertained with two piano solos.

Dorcas society of the Wasco Church of Christ met at the home of Mrs. D.A. Kaseberg with dessert luncheon served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Roxie Herring. Mrs. Harry Hicks had charge of the devotional program. During the business meeting new officers were elected for the coming year. Mrs. Jerry Barnett is president; Jessie Hicks will assist as vice president; the new secretary is Karen Kaseberg and Marjorie VanGilder is treasurer. The next meeting will be held Feb. 13 at 1:30 in the church basement.

Wasco Church of Christ will hold a series of meetings beginning January 20 and continuing through February. Everyone is invited to come and hear Ronald and Ellery Parrish each night except Saturday.

Following a potluck dinner at the Wasco Methodist church next Sunday, Richard Blakeney, assistant administrator at the Good Samaritan hospital in Portland will speak and show slides about his work as medical missionary in Borneo. The Blakeney family returned to the states three years ago after spending a number of years in Borneo. He is the son of Mr and Mrs Leslie Blakeney of Bremerton, Wash., who were former residents of Wasco when he was principal of the school. Blakeney's mother was formerly Dorothy Barnett whose family have been long time residents of the community. Everyone is welcome to come to the potluck.

Rufus News

By Mrs. George Fox
Correspondent Not Happy
Over Re-appraisal

Just as your correspondent was stirring about this morning a knock came on the door and there stood two men saying they were working for the assessor and would like to see around. I asked them if they wouldn't come back in an hour. Well, they walked about the grounds ogling the area I assumed I had best hurry and get dressed or they would be wasting their time around my place. I told them I didn't know I was the last place for them to check, but they said, "No, yours is the first place". Well, after showing them about, I couldn't see why two eyes couldn't see as much as four eyes could. But then I guess a man was needed to hold the tape measure to take the building's measurements. Any one can remember it was just a couple of years ago these same buildings were measured by a paid man. Of course, in a couple of years, I presume the building might be off an inch more or less, or at least enough that is was feasible for the taxpayer to hire men to re-measure them. Seems to a lot of us, the taxpayer dollar could be spent more profitably. I know this gives jobs to a lot of people, but let some of them figure out other ways to earn their living as the men and women did in the past. I think it is time for the taxpayers to look into other fields where jobs are created, so as to put some one else on the payroll. We don't mind paying taxes to support our county, state, and federal government, but we do hate to support our neighbor. This brings us back to the free text book argument. It all amounts to who is footing the bill, you or I? The losers of the White Satin sugar contest with Mrs. Millard

Leigh as chairman served a scrumptious fried chicken dinner, all the trimmings with pumpkin pie with whipped cream for dessert at Rufus Grange Hall last Thursday evening. There were 33 out to this dinner.

After the dinner was cleared away Mrs. Leigh, chairman of the Home Economics club of the Grange called the meeting to order. The past chairman's pin was to be sent to Mrs. Otto Peterson, last year's chairman because she has not been able to attend Grange meetings. The secretary, Mrs. George Fox, said eight place settings of stainless steel have accumulated by saving World Bond stamp book covers this past year. The club has pepper and vanilla to sell.

A letter from Pendleton State hospital was received thanking the club for the gifts sent to them at Christmas time. Also a thank you from Major Blake at Camp Columbia, thanking the club for the quilt sent the camp at Christmas time.

A bazaar was discussed but the club doesn't want one this year. Mrs. Rolland Johnson said she needed a few more MJB coffee hands to get a case of coffee for the Grange. The members voted to give each a dollar to invest for the club and see what they could make from it during the year. Mrs. Bert Swiger offered to crochet an afghan for the club to auction off this fall. So the club is purchasing the yarn for the afghan which will be brown and yellow and approximately 54 by 72 inches. Mrs. Kenneth Bleakman offered to make a tooled leather purse if the club bought the material.

Mrs. Bob Byrd is chairman of the March of Dimes for the Rufus area. She is asking others to help her out with each district.

Mrs. George Fox, as a member of the Home Extension Advisory committee for the Rufus area is asked to contact the people to see if they are interested in a sponsoring furniture workshop. If one is interested they must attend a preliminary meeting and get signed up for the work. The meetings are for the Legion hall in Moro Jan. 21 at 7:30; at Wasco Legion hall Jan. 28 at 1:30 They area open to the public.

Mrs. Robert Morris has returned home after a week spent in the hospital with a bad case of the flu.

Mrs. Bob Byrd took her son Loren to Pasco where he enrolled in college for this term. Loren is a 1962 graduate of Sherman High school. Bob Byrd returned to college at LaGrande where he is a junior. Then the Byrds have a daughter, Linda, in high school and Janice who will be in the first grade this fall, so it will be many years until all their children are through school.
