Consumers Should Not Be Suckers

Consumers should take with a sizable grain of salt claims such as "just brown and serve" when they prepare raw pork products for the table.

This is the advice of Dr. M. L. Houston, supervisor of the state department of agriculture's meat inspection activity.

Undercooked pork, as everyone knows, may cause the human health problem of trichinosis. Some raw pork harbors this trichina infection and so far no practical meat inspection method has been devised to determine its presence in raw pork. While modern sanitary methods of housing and feeding swine are making headway, elimination of the infection is "still far in the future," Dr. Houston believes.

The housewife can protect her family quite easily against possible trichina infection by thorough heating of all raw pork.

But the need to heat thoroughly may be overlooked when labels on many pork variety meats give the impression that they can be prepared in a jiffy. Thin fresh pork patties and links as well as all other pork should be heated through.

Cooks who may be tempted to just brown the outside very quickly in a hot skillet "to brown and serve" should do more than that—they should be sure that the interior of the meat is well done.

Cook fresh pork until it has lost all the pink color—that's the standing guide to thorough heating and it is just as true for the new variety pork cuts as it was when first propounded, says Houston.

He adds this about pork: pay particular attention to the interior of roasts and to the meat next to the bone in chops. He also warns against undercooking pork products that have been flavored by artificial smoke rather than by natural smoke with its accompanying heat.

The Handy Girls 4-H sewing club with Mrs. Helen Martin met Jan. 21 at 3:30 at the high school. Nancy Grogan from Wasco was a guest.

We decided the year's program. We discussed about a party and decided to invite the Grass Valley sewing clubs and their mothers. We will invite our mothers too. We will model and the refreshments will brought by our leaders. This party will be on Feb. 14 at the high school. Connie Hoyer and Susan Barzee will bring refreshments to our next meeting which will be on Feb. 4 Monday at the high school.

The Busy Beefers with Henry Jaeger met Jan. 9, at 7:30 at the Lloyd Henrichs home. Allen Miller, Joe Heater and Mrs. Henrichs were guests.

President Carolyn Henrichs called the meeting to order. Our roll-call topic is what we feed our calves. Carolyn and Nancy Henrichs gave reports on good points in judging. Mrs. Henrichs served refreshments. The next meeting will be at the Ronald Powell home. Roll call topic will be how much we feed our calves.

Kathy Miller, reporter

The Knits Wits with Mrs. Ralph Minnick met Jan 16 at 5:30 at the home of Mrs. Minnick in Rufus. Norma Minnick was a visitor.

We knitted, learned how to pearl, and cast on. We picked two girls, Lee Lea Coleman and Sydne Sweet to bring refreshments for the next meeting. Tien was discussed future business. There were refreshments served after the meeting.

In the future we will learn to decrease and pearl. Joie Summers will give a report on decrease and Linda Sweet will give a report on purling.

The girls voted to make pot holders for display.

The Moro Livestock club met at Barnum hall January 14 with its leaders, Frank Sayrs and Don

Bellamy. We had a film on sheep shears. This film showed us how to shear sheep and show a sheep. Casey Wallace, reporter

Ten members of the Hi-Yu 4-H Horse club met at the American Legion hall in Moro at 1:00 p.m. Saturday, January 5. Visitors were Dee VanGilder, Paula Byars and Mrs George Weedman of Wasco and Mrs Oscar Lemley of Grass Valley.

Roll call was answered by naming parts of a saddle after which Dan Hall led the group in several songs. Holly Mulick then gave a report on the Appaloosa breed and answered questions from the floor. Fred Hall gave us advice on keeping our record books up to date and meaningful. We then studied movies provided by the Sherman County Riders. We are all grateful to them for giving us this opportunity. Soda pop and cookies were served by Janice Carter and Randy Lemley.
