FORGETS IMPORTANT DATE

This quick-thinking young wife, who forgot her mother-in-law's birthday till the last moment, didn't send an "I forgot" card or whip up a belated fudge cake. She just called her mother-in-law by long distance (after 6 p.m., when rates were lower), and the whole family said "Happy Birthday!" Why don't you spread some joy among your kinfolk, by long distance, this evening? PACIFIC NORTHWEST BELL
