THURSDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1898.

Business never was disturbed by the prospects of republican success.

Clearly and surely the people are coming to understand that the dreadful crime of 1873 was a crafty and deep laid plot to prevent the value of the American dollar from falling below 100 cents.

The republican cause never was more just and righteous than this year. And the triumph of its principles was never more essential to the general welfare of the American people than now.

Sewall is a gold-bug after the style of Altgeld or Penoyer. He is a money lender as well as the Illinois anarchist governor and his Oregon prototype; and makes sure to put a gold payment stipulation into every contract he makes.

"The tariff is now 18 months old," said Maj. McKinley in 1892, "and is doing its own talking." The democratic tariff is now also two years old and it has talked thousands of once flourishing industries to their death. No man dare dispute these facts.

The triumph of free silver means the triumph of free trade while republican success means a protection that will protect, and that prosperity will follow as surely as night follows day. A stable financial system with the wise and beneficent policy which brought the nation through the stress of war with its credit unimpaired and its treasury overflowing, will again bring relief to the farmer, work to the mechanic and good times to the whole country.

Talk about the death hold which the bankers have got upon the people through the influence of gold. Did you ever think what Bryan could do for the bankers of America who today hold one half of the entire gold of the United States within their vaults? If tomorrow the bankers should wake up and find the government upon a silver standard, and every gold dollar worth two silver dollars, what would they do? They would sell it for two silver dollars and pay their depositors in the demonetized stuff, and pocket $280,000,000 by the legalized crime.

These were the sentiments of James G. Blaine: "If we coin a silver dollar of full legal tender below the current value of the gold dollar, we are simply opening our doors and inviting England to take our gold. With our gold flowing out from us we shall be forced to the single silver standard and our relations with the leading commercial countries of the world would be not only embarrassed, but crippled. What gain should we make, therefore, for the circulating medium if on opening the gate for silver to flow in we open a still wider gate for gold to flow out?"

I have seen somewhere an inquiry says Maj. McKinley—"Cannot the United States establish a financial system of its own? Is it too weak and dependent to do that?" His answer is, "The United States now has a financial policy, which in the main it has been pursuing since the beginning of the government, and which it does not mean to change until it can find a better one." Precisely; those who make the inquiry are usually against our American policy of finance, and they are insisting that we shall adopt the financial policy of China and Mexico. It should not be thought an evidence of lack of national independence that we decline to adopt their proposition.

"Better a thousand times enlarge the markets for American products than enlarge the mints for the silver product of the world," is what Maj. McKinley said to a party of visiting farmers. The utterance describes the whole situation. Free coinage will not create a demand for one extra bushel of wheat. It would not give employment to an idle laborer nor increase by the smallest fraction the demand for labor products. To the popocrat cry, "open the mints," McKinley says, "open the mills." The solution of the whole question is industry. Restore to us a policy which banishes idleness and the financial distress which vex our politics will readily vanish.

A NEW VOLUME.

With this issue THE OBSERVER enters upon the ninth year of its existence and if any reader, outside of Sherman county, fails to receive the next succeeding issues it will be because we have closed the account system and adopted that of advance payment for future business. If you have been receiving the paper since June 1st, 1894, and have paid nothing, you owe us $4.15. If you have paid something during that time the account has been correspondingly reduced. Bills will be sent to all delinquents outside of Sherman county as speedily as time will permit, but anybody ought to know just how a trifling little matter of a bit a month stands without entailing upon the labor and expense of making out a statement and forwarding to each—aggregating hundreds. It is for the purpose of unloading this annoyance that we refuse to any longer mail the paper outside of Sherman county without THE DOLLAR IN ADVANCE. Stopping the paper at the expiration of the time paid for. This same rule may be adopted by any reader in the county who may prefer it, but we do not wish to be arbitrary with our immediate neighbors and friends. We are all hand up alike, but if any body wants to take advantage of our DOLLAR-A-YEAR proposition we shall be happy to accommodate them.

Hundreds of good men believe they are in favor of free coinage. Let them think and investigate, before preaching the doctrine. The present financial system is all right. What we need is a return of prosperity and confidence.

Ex-Senator Corbett, of Portland, in one of his recent able political letters conclusively proves to any rational mind that it is the duty of every good citizen and patriot to inform himself on the issues of the day and if he does so he will give the republican side of the question his earnest support independent of former party considerations or affiliations, which is in exact harmony with our views on the subject.

This remark of Maj. McKinley puts the essence of the money question into a nutshell so clearly that no one can fail to understand it. "If, said he, you can increase the value of anything by lowering the measure of value, and if you want to benefit the farmer, then make the bushel smaller the pound lighter, and declare a legal dozen less than twelve." This is precisely what Bryanites are seeking to do with the dollar, and it is not a bit less absurd than the things suggested above.

Writing from New York, under date of the 14th, to Prof. Brown of Moro, Col. Chas. A. Buckley says: "I presume our little county is full of able speakers by this time and undoubtedly many pops have abandoned their free silver ideas and are now ranked with the solid party. Politics in this city are very quiet for the simple reason it is all one sided, every one you meet is for McKinley and protection. McKinley buttons are not in supply equal to demand, Bryan buttons are as scarce as spears of grass on Broadway. Can you believe that there is over five hundred American flags in this city swinging to the winds bearing McKinley and Hobart, while Bryan has less than five, such is the sentiment here. McKinley will surely be elected without a single doubt. Money is plenty here for betting purposes but if there has been any money bet on Bryan the press is not aware of it. Business is improving every day and after election rapid improvement in all lines of industry is assured. I leave here tomorrow and will reach Grass Valley about the 23d.

This matter of the free coinage of silver and the degradation of the standard of value involves not only questions of money, but of honor and good faith. When their honor is involved the people have never failed to respond. They have complied with every promise and paid every debt contracted since the organization of the national government, and it became due. They have paid four-fifths of the debts contracted during the civil war and the prospect was hopeful that all of it would be paid before the close of this century, but this reversing of the standards of value, like the fire bell at night, has startled and alarmed the people. It must be settled by following the advice of Washington, Hamilton, Jefferson, Benton, Hunter, Lincoln and Grant. Maintain silver and gold at par with each other at the present ratio until a conference among nations can prescribe common standards of value. Meantime, let no act be done, no policy be adopted, no expedient resorted to, that will tarnish the honor of this great republic.

Where ever there has been a break down in the averages of prosperity, or where ever there has been a tendency downward in enterprise, wages or values, it has been largely due to a temporary departure from the protective principles and the adoption of free trade. Protection has invariably been attended by good times and low tariffs have invariably been followed by periods of depression and hardships.

Business is taking an interest in politics this year that it never has taken before. This is because the policy proposed by Bryan and his supporters would revolutionize all values and make such tremendous changes that nobody can now tell what the result would be. Therefore, nobody will make any obligations that may be radically changed, or that may be radically making, by the result of the election.

Incident to the excitement of this campaign it is important that we do not lose sight of protection. The history of protection is the record of the most prosperous 30 years of our national life. The marvelous development of our resources, the magical expansion of our industrial interests and the magnificent growth of the country, in power and influence, have taken place under the fostering care of tariff protection.

When Dolly was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a child, she cried for Castoria. When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

"You do not get consumers thro' the mint," says Maj. McKinley to the American farmers, "you get them thro' the factories," a statement of profound truth, which must come home to every man when he thinks that his wealth comes from the work he does in the world and the market he is able to find for the fruits of his labor and not from any amount of fiat money in existence. All the money coined will not do him any good unless he has something to give for it and unless other men can use what he has to give.
