The orations in Sherman county this celebration by Rev. Alford at Willerton's grove, and Rev. Spaulding in Moro, were splendid. All the patriotic speeches and singing was good.

An eastern paper tells of a cyclone that took all the wind out of a Kansas politician; moved a township line in Nebraska, changed the day of the week in Iowa and turned a cellar upside down in Wisconsin.

Every fiber of THE OBSERVER man's anatomy responds to the sentiment uttered last week at Nashville by President McKinley: "Let us always remember that whatever political difference have existed or may still exist we are still Americans before we are partisans and value the welfare of all the people above party or section."

Looking at the mass of neatly clad and well fed people to be seen on the picnic grounds of Sherman county Saturday and Monday, one can but be thankful for the many blessings showered upon this community; blessings denied to many much more pretentious people. The long lines of neat and substantial vehicles seen upon such occasions is quite in contrast with those of a dozen years ago when but two or three buggies, or other spring vehicles, were all there were owned in the region of what is now Sherman county.

Talk about your celebrations. Moro had so little time to prepare that the program wasn't made up until Sunday night. But it was a big success from A to Z. The liberty car, the duphunny firemen in activity and the base ball playing would have filled the bill alone, but aside from these there was speaking, singing, and field games galore. The park carried all hearts with its grassy sward, Old Sol smiled upon us the entire day long, and not a whiff of dust appeared to create a pun at dinner time about "the sandwiches here."

The planting of trees brings divinely pleasant experiences aside from the luxury and foliage of fruit. The feathered songsters feel invited to come and summer with you when your grounds are surrounded with trees. Horticulture cannot be carried on successfully without bird culture. It is true that some years one may get fair crops of many things without the aid of our inarticulate friends—but this is not the general rule. Each homestead should be planned to make it a resort for helpful birds. When feeling entirely safe their music is enough to pay for their keep. Then their singing power is marvelous. In Fossil, the Journal tells us, some fine songsters are making their home since the shade trees have grown up, and there are hundreds of nests within reach of passers, which even the boys do not molest. This summer several mocking birds have added their varied notes to the daily concert. A few humming birds may be seen, and various other rare members of the feathered tribe shed sweet music on the fragrant evening air. A couple of bee martins are rearing their young in the Journal door yard and Bro. Stewart "honestly believes that his children would rather lose their ... than that nest."

The Sherman county Farmers Co-operative Warehouse company elected officers for the current year as follows: Directors, John Medler, A. D. McDonald, John Fales, R.C. Atwood, John Henrichs, Marion Powell. President, John Medler. Secretary, R.C.Atwood. Treasurer, John Fales. Manager, A.D. McDonald. O.W. Richardson will operate the Biggs warehouse.

Nothing equals an outing trip to Portland at this time of the year by the steamers of the DP and ANCo. The cool breezes on the Columbia are inviting, but there are numerous other conditions to be considered. Attentive officers, a luxurious dinner, a ride through the locks, the never ending and always alluring majestic scenery by this route contribute to make the trip one ever to be remembered. With a cuisine classique and a spotless reputation the DP and ANCo. will sustain the reputation acquired by the old time OSNCo.

This has been THE OBSERVER man's annual week among Sherman county farmers, and we return to the tread-mill more encouragingly hopeful of a prosperous harvest than ever before. The harvest of 1894 was a record-breaker, when Sherman county shipped 2,250,000 bushels of No.1 wheat, producing 1-6th of all that was raised in Oregon that year. This year the acreage is at least 1-4th greater than that of 1894, and the heads show that we may expect fully 1-5th more wheat per acre, and with the assurances of a price to start sales such as we have not had for years, it is very evident that the coming fall will enable some of us to lay aside our "Cleveland badges" and don a new pair of breeches.

The Sherman county quota of the ONG, in attendance at the state encampment at Hood river valley last week, were never more delighted. That grand retreat was a revelation to most of all who were present, freshly dressed for its summer outing. The big oaks were fairly in leaf, showing all gradations of color to the deepest green, and everywhere were flowers, freshness and fragrance. In all 1280 men were in camp. Co. A, Sherman county, were placed on guard immediately upon arriving, for the first 24 hours, with Lieutenant Henrichs as officer of the day and Lieutenant Marsh officer of the guard. The work was new to both officers and men, but the service was so efficiently done as to be highly complimented by Gen. Beebe. The Glacier says Company A is well officered and one of the best appearing companies in the third regiment. All the troops in camp went to Portland and took part in the parade on the 5th.

INDIA'S MILLIONS.

Some Idea of the Magnitude of the Task England Has to Perform.

One of the great wonders of the modern world is the supremacy which Great Britain has acquired over the people of India, who are second in numbers only to the population of China, and far outnumber any other nation in the world. Not only are they held in subjection by a comparative handful of British troops, but they contribute a native army for the maintenance of British power in India. This wonderful state of things is due, not merely to British military courage and skill, but largely also to the wisdom and executive ability of the officials charged with the administration of civil affairs in the country. Rome in her best days never showed more audacity and skill. English methods in law and government have won the confidence of the people to a remarkable degree. Some idea of the magnitude of the task which England has in the management of her magnificent possession may be obtained from the figures given by the census taken in 1891, which presents some very interesting and significant facts.

It appears from this enumeration that Britain's Indian empire comprises 1,500,000 square miles, and in 1891 had a population of 287,000,000. The males exceed the females by 6,000. In ten years the inhabitants increased 34,000,000. Contrary to the condition of things among the western nations the town population is only 9½ per cent. of the whole. The ancient Brahmanic religious belief still counts 211,000,000 adherents. The Buddhists number 7,000,000. The followers of Mohammed count up 57,000,000. The ancient pagan or native worshipers number 9,000,000, and there are 90,000 who follow the faith of Zoroaster. The Christians number 2,250,000. The people of India are not long-lived. Of this immense multitude only 15,000,000 reach the age of 60. The illiterate comprise 274,000,000 of the population.

One cause of the success of the British in governing India is found in the fact that 118 different languages or dialects are spoken, though some of them are doubtless very similar. The differences of race, religion and language render a combination against the English rulers almost impracticable, in view of their judicious policy. The British management of the country, in construction of railroads and a system of irrigation by means of which famines are averted or ameliorated, the suppression of widow burning, infanticide and the protection of human life, especially of female and child life, has stimulated the increase of population to such a degree—more than 3,000,000 annually, that the limits of production of food are nearly reached. In view of this last fact it is only a question of a short time when the surplus population of India will join the Chinese hordes in seeking new homes in other lands, and a fresh source of embarrassment will confront the rulers of more civilized nations, since the newcomers are sure to be antagonized by the laboring classes.

Major's Wasco Letter.

Rev.J.W.Helm will fill the M.E. pulpit at this place Sunday evening.

Mrs. W.D.Arnsworthy had the misfortune to dislocate her ankle last Tuesday.

H.F.Allen spent a few days in Wasco last week visiting at the home of C.J.Bright.

With a number of men and teams the work on the railroad is rapidly progressing.

A.R.Tozier passed through Friday on his way home from his stock farm in Grant county, to the Cascades where he is interested in a fishery.

A number of the Wasco people celebrated at Locust Grove Saturday. A very enjoyable time was had, although real estate was moving rapidly.

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

Lung Troubles and Consumption Can be Cured.

An eminent New York chemist and scientist makes a free offer to our readers.

The distinguished New York chemist, T. A. Slocum, demonstrating his discovery of a reliable and absolute cure for Consumption (Pulmonary Tuberculosis) and all bronchial, throat, lung and chest diseases, stubborn coughs, catarrhal affections general decline and weakness, loss of flesh, and all conditions of wasting away, will send THREE FREE BOTTLES (all different) of his New Discoveries to any afflicted reader of THE OBSERVER writing for them. His "New Scientific Treatment" has cured thousands permanently by its timely use, and he considers it a simple professional duty to suffering humanity to donate a trial of his infallible cure.

Science daily develops new wonders and this great chemist, patiently experimenting for years, has produced results as beneficial to humanity as can be claimed by any modern genius. His assertion that lung troubles and consumption are curable in any climate is proven by heartfelt letters of gratitude filed in his American and European laboratories in thousands from those cured in all parts of the world.

Medical experts concede that bronchial chest and lung troubles lead to consumption which, uninterrupted, means speedy and certain death.

Simply write to T. A. Slocum, M. C., 98 Pine street, New York, giving postoffice and express address, and the free medicine will be promptly sent. Sufferers should take instant advantage of his generous proposition.

Please tell the Doctor that you saw his offer in THE MORO OBSERVER.

When I was journeying through the Brunig pass in Switzerland the train stopped at one of the small stations there, says a writer in the Philadelphia Press. It is the custom for the Swiss girls to come out to the carriages with fruit in small wicker baskets which they sell to the tourists for fifty centimes, or ten cents in our money. At the particular station of which I write it was an exceedingly pretty maiden which came up to our carriage, with her braided, weather-bleached hair shining uncovered in the soft Swiss sunshine; her eyes were blue and sweet and her voice was very beautiful. "Feefty centimes" was all she could say as she held up her fruit to us, smiling winningly the while. Among our party was a young U. of P. student. "Jove, but isn't she pretty!" he exclaimed, and suddenly leaned recklessly out of the window and said boldly to the pretty creature: "What would you take for a kiss?" "Feefty centimes," the girl replied, holding up her fruit and smiling sweetly; whereupon the impressible student sprang out of the carriage and, rushing up to the Swiss maiden, quietly bought one of the baskets of fruit, saying, as he came laughing back: "Well, I had but fifty centimes and I thought I'd rather have the fruit than the kiss, and then, too, I promised my mother not to take any risks over here—she might have brought a breach-of-promise suit, you know," and then added, shaking his head sagely and sighing: "One can't be too careful with these women, even in unsophisticated Switzerland."

A Swiss economist paper makes the following interesting statement: "The hotels and pensions in Switzerland dispose of 62,500 beds, which are annually used by 5,724,000 tourists, paying to the proprietors for such use and other requirements the sum of 12½ francs daily on an average—which makes the total gross receipts 71,545,000 francs. The tourists spend besides about 10 francs per diem for travel, guides, amusements, medical attendance, etc., equal to a total of 57,240,000 francs—the two amounts making an aggregate of 128,785,000 francs. If from this sum are deducted 3,000,000 francs for the traveling and hotel expenses of the native population, there still remain 125,785,000 francs as the sum annually brought by foreign tourists into Switzerland.

An alarm clock is usually used for getting people up, not for sending them to bed, but I know of at least one authentic case in which the latter end was attained by it, says a writer in Kate Field's Washington. A nervous, active woman who refused to take an afternoon nap because she could "never think of it until it was too late," was astonished by the gift of an alarm clock with the alarm set exactly at three. It sounded a regular summons to daily rest. Its imperative call could not be disregarded and in a short time the lady found her health and spirits much improved.

Tailors' Dummies.

Wax figures are slowly disappearing as advertising agencies. The cheap tailors use figures of wire with heads of plaster and papier mache, and the cheap dentists have taken in some of their horrible heads with staring eyes and teeth that were gnashed by machinery. The effect of summer sun on a few of the wax figures that are still used in shop windows is ghastly. There is one figure of a woman whose arm is drooping into a half-circle, and there is a tailor's dummy whose forehead is falling into his eyes, giving him a very malign expression. In a certain farce comedy a loud laugh is raised at an incident in a tailor's shop. A comedian undertakes to sing "White Wings," when one of the dummies that has been standing stiffly against the wall moves forward with clasped hands, makes a gesture of agonized entreaty, and walks off like an automaton. The singer stops.

A Kindly Princess.

The princess of Wales is very kind to her poor neigbors at Sandringham. A writer in the Idler says that often she may be seen picking up the dusty little dots of children from the roads, placing them in her own carriage until it is completely packed, and then duly delivering each at its own home to boast of having enjoyed a ride with her.

Esquimau Drivers.

The skill of the Esquimau dog drivers with the whips, by which they control their unruly teams, is said to be something marvelous. The whip consists of a rawhide lash about forty feet long, fastened to a handle not over six inches in length. A contest was arranged among them in the presence of an explorer.

A nickel was the prize. It was buried in the ground, with just enough of the edge showing to allow it to be seen. The contestants stood in a line the length of their whips away from it, and about eight feet apart. The most expert whip was a little man not more than four feet high, with slanting eyes and a spiky little beard that made him look very Japanese. A movement of his wrist sent the forty feet of lash curving back in a straight line like a long snake.

Another movement and it came forward noiselessly, shooting through the air just above the surface of the ground, until, with a loud report, the tip end of the lash struck the exact spot where the coin lay buried, dug it from the ground, and brought it spinning back to the Esquimau artist.

Such precision and such force are certainly unknown to any other whips in the world. One of these fellows could cut a man to pieces with his whip, if he had occasion to.

THE TERM "YANKEE."

Various Theories Which Have Been Advanced as to Its Origin.

The theories which have been advanced as to the origin of the name Yankees are numerous. According to Thierny, it was a corruption of Jakin, a diminutive of John, which was a nickname given by the Dutch colonists of New York to their neighbors in the Connecticut settlements.

In a history of the American war written by Dr. William Gordon and published in 1789 was another theory. Dr. Gordon said that it was a cant word in Cambridge, Mass., as early as 1713, used to denote especial excellence—as a Yankee good horse, Yankee good cider, etc. He supposed that it was originally a byword in the college, and being taken by the students into parts of the country gradually obtained general currency in New England, and at length came to be taken up in other parts of the country and applied to New Englanders as a term of slight reproach.

Aubury, an English writer, says that it is derived from a Cherokee word—eankee—which signifies coward and slave. This epithet was bestowed upon the inhabitants of New England by the Virginians for not assisting them in a war with the Cherokees. The most probable theory, however, is that advanced by Mr. Heckewelder—that the Indians in endeavoring to pronounce the word English, or Anglais, made it Yengees or Yangees and this originated the term.
