FALLING LEAVES.

Around me fly the falling leaves—
In vain their fate my spirit grieves.
For nature grants us no reprieves.

Throughout the world she holds her sway.
Her laws must men and leaves obey.
From dust they spring, to dust decay.

Yet while this requiem we sing,
Our faith looks forward to the spring
That shall the Resurrection bring.

Back to the earth for earth's own sake
The falling leaves themselves betake
Out soon in beauty shall awake.

Awhile they mingle with the soil,
Till nature's unremitting toil
Shall reproduce with nought of moil.

As fall the leaves our dear ones fall,
When comes to each the silent call;
Nor long the grave shall them enthrall.

Ah, why begrudge them nature's sleep?
Why deem the grave so dark, so deep,
Or tears of hopeless sorrow weep?

For sleeping mortals comes the spring
And joy with morn's awakening.
Immortal life the day shall bring.

E'en death is part of nature's plan,
And hath been since the world began.
Sweet death, unerring friend of man.

Such are the thoughts my fancy weaves
With brightest hues of falling leaves—
No more my thoughtful spirit grieves.

THE OBSERVER man drops us a line apologetic. He is so taken up with sleep at The Maples, in Multnomah county, that he really has no time for writing.

It has leaked out that W.J.Bryan wears a highly illuminated silk night shirt. It is reasonably certain that the party who gave it away is no gentleman.

J. A. West has purchased Doug Allen's interest in the Dalles-Moro stage line. For passenger, freight, and express rates; also leaving time see adv. on first page.

The band of gypsies that passed through Moro about two weeks ago are now on the road between Fossil and Arlington. About ten of them held up Harry Reed, the Fossil stage driver, last week. He gave them all his tobacco, but they were not satisfied with that and clambered all over him and the wagon. He got rid of them by driving off at full speed, knocking them in every direction.

THE OBSERVER man had a change of scenery in Multnomah last week. From hammock under stately maples to a mattrass of fern in the shady corner of a hay field. With all came a change of heart respecting the Oregon game laws. Denny pheasants escaping, so young that they carried shells upon their backs, was convincing evidence that Mongol is able to protect itself. A rabbitt, bleeding to death beneath the sweath, separated from all four of its feet by the sycle, shows that Gov. Lord should call the assembly together immediately.

Dalles T.-M.: The Dalles National bank will pay a dividend of 25 per cent as soon as proper schedules and checks can be prepared and returned from Washington. It will be necessary for every person who has a claim against the bank to prove such claim and receive a receiver's certificate therefore before he is entitled to a dividend. It was thought that no dividend would be declared until the time for proving claims, September 5th, had expired but the controller of currency has already declared one dividend and other large dividends will be made in the near future, provided the debtors of the bank are prompt in paying.

Jack Burkes was seen in Montana the first of the month by Sherman Neece. He told the people he was just from England and was rolling things high, but when he saw Sherman he folded his tent and stole quietly but quickly away.

When farmers learn that the policy that leads to success in farming is to buy nothing that can be raised on the farm and wherever and whenever possible to have a little at least of a variety of things to sell there will be fewer mortgages on their places.

Do you know it? The cull culls peaches at the S.M.Carson orchard are larger and better than some peaches retailed at a high price from some counties. The proof of the pudding is the taste thereof; bring your box of Wasco county peaches down and compare.

The AOUW grand lodge for Oregon met last week in Portland. The lodge has adopted the classified plan of assessments. D. C. Herrin was re-elected grand lecturer. The Degree of Honor grand lodge installed Mrs. E. M. Briggs of The Dalles as grand chief of honor.

Picnics on the Columbia are an almost daily happening now by the DPANCo. steamers. The tourist finds them an oasis in the desert of dust stained travel from the Atlantic to the Pacific and the tendency is to cause cheerful recollections of the stop over priveilges in Portland.

Driver Dunahoo of the Rutledge stage has had his hand done up in a bandage since the 21st. He was leading a horse with one hand and driving stage with the other when the horse he was leading shied and before he could stop the team the rope had burnt a circle around the center of his hand.

Cutting scrape, at Heydt & Co.'s saddlery in Moro. It was a serious cut in saddles that attracted quite a crowd. Heydt & Co. propose to keep up the cut just as long as anybody wants a saddle. Other goods, harnesses, whips, etc., are going off like hot cakes. Call and price these goods before you buy.

New wheat has been sold in Pendleton for 55 cents a bushel and the East Oregonian estimates, taking San Francisco prices and allowing for freight and commissions, that it is worth 56½ cents. From present indications the opening price for Sherman, Wasco and Klickitat wheat will be not less than 65 cts.

So far there is no satisfactory explanation of the original proposition why more women than men live to be 100. Some say it is because women are less addicted to tobacco and strong drink, others say that it is because it is more healthy to spend money than it is to earn it, and so on. It may be that many of the men who would live to be 100 are killed at an early age in casualties to which women are not exposed. It may be that tight lacing is a life preserver, and it may not be a fact, after all. The situation is replete with possibilities.

It is wonderful how rapidly some people change their minds down in Multnomah. Pennoyer has no patent. A Portsmouth man who had a splendid potato patch a week ago was the only person met with on the peninsula who was free to talk cheerfully of the future. He fairly doated on that potato patch. Three days later THE O. Man discovered that the entire patch had passed the ordeal of a digging and the product was en route to market. In response to why this was thus the potato man explained that the per capita had caused another stringency and spuds wouldn't be worth their salt next fall, and as he had a very fair offer 80c per 100, sold the lot to a dealer. So you see the potato figures in politics some.

Between the prospective increase in demand for farm products in the manufacturing districts and the certainty that there is to be an unusual demand abroad, the prospects for the farmers are unusually bright. There is every reason to believe that there will be a prompt renewal of business activity in the manufacturing districts after the tariff bill become a law, the effect of which will be felt in the increased demand for farm productions, while the advices from abroad indicate an unusual shortage of crops in nearly all the great grain producing countries of the world. Reports from Australia and the Argentine Republic indicate that their crop prospects are not up to the usual standard while India, it is believed, will scarcely supply more than required for her own consumption.

On the first day of July the bill permitting the printing and use of private mailing cards, with a 1-cent stamp affixed, went into effect. The progressive business man will have his own advertisement conspicuously displayed and the printing of millions of cards will make more work for the American printer. The bill is approved by the postoffice department as it tends to popularize postal cards, besides effecting a saving to the government of the difference between the cost of the cards and the stamps.

Flour is selling in the new Alaska Cloudyke gold fields at $171 a hundred. At that rate a biscuit would be worth something like a "bit" and a good square meal would cost about a dollar and a half. A man could not get along on less than $100 a month expenses and to do that he would be compelled to live like a miser. The cream of the claims has been taken already and all in all the prospect when reduced to hard facts and cold figures is simply a gamble that a fellow would strike it rich and not come home broke. Ten to one he'd have to send home for money and come back to work out the debt.

The thing for Gen. Nelson A. Miles, student of tactics, to do is to hark right back to this country and proceed to Cuba, there to take a course in the apiary department of the insurgent arms. The few things he was able to learn in Greece such as the proper way to retreat in a hurry and a two-horse carriage would be dwarfed into insignificance by the ideas which he would gather by carefully observing the island insurrection. The Cubans from the start have shown a disposition to employ all the best and latest in warfare and the Cuamanayagua affair offers especial attractions to such an investigator of the novel and effective as is Gen. Miles. As the dispatches tell it the insurgent forces were encamped in large numbers near the outskirts of Cuamanayagua. A Spanish battalion with guerrillas left the town to attack the insurgents who, after some fighting made a false retreat, leading the Spanish to follow them to an insurgent ambush. The retreat led the Spanish troops into a large apiary, where there were many bee hives. When the Spaniards were near the center of the apairy the insurgents began to shoot into the bee hives and Spaniards. The bees attacked the Spaniards and between the insects and the insurgents the Spaniards driven to defeat in great disorder with heavy loss.

A Physician's Tribute

To the Benefits Received From Dr. Miles' NEW HEART CURE.

HEART DISEASE is curable. It is not surprising that all cases are not cured, since no physician has made the heart a special study for a quarter of a century as Dr. Miles has done. The following tribute from a physician will be read with interest. "For six years prior to taking Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure my wife was a terrible sufferer from heart disease. She had a constant fluttering of the heart and severe palpitation and pain in the left side. She took three bottles of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and was completely restored to health, and has not taken a drop of medicine during the past two years. Under these circumstances I cannot do otherwise than recommend it to others."
Friendship, N. Y. W. H. SCOTT, M. D.
