OFFICIAL PAPER OF SHERMAN CO.
MORO, OREGON.

D. C. IRELAND & SONS.....EDITORS

FRIDAY.....MARCH 10, 1899

The Kansas city smelting works were not absorbed by the Pittsburg trust.

Astoria pays $11,500 annual interest on its present bonded indebtedness.

The Butte, Montana, Smelting co. was molded over to be a part of the Denver combine last week.

Three townships in the extreme south west of Gilliam, although entirely cut off, remain a part of that county.

Buckley don't like Judson. Why can't Hurlbert get a rutler who can "suit everybody?" Some do say that Pat Donan "has faults."

We have yet to hear of a tree or vine winter-killed in Sherman county the season past. In fact, for that matter, at any other season.

We cannot endorse all the tribe of republican newspapers and correspondents, some of whom appear determined to wreck the G.O.P.

Mount Rainier National Park will settle 'Tacoma' ambitions. That famous Mount will now dwindle away beneath the dignity of a mole-hill.

The Western paper company of Milwaukee has consolidated with a $400,000 company in London, Eng. Machinery is to be transported to Jersey City.

The country remembers that before the war began there was some pressure exerted to make Miles a Lt. General. If any one asks 'why?' the conundrum must be given up.

Denver street railways, having acquired control of every available gift and franchise in that city and its suburbs will now pool their issues in a combination to take what may be left.

Canada has become afflicted with the trust contagion. At the coming session the Dominion Parliment will be asked to incorporate a fish company corresponding with the fish trust of the United States.

Now we have the American wool ens company trust. The Pendleton mills is not it, but just keeps right on selling Oregon Indian robes, all wool and full size, to eastern nabobs who know a good article when they feel of it.

Dental science has taken another step in advance by the use of glass in filling teeth. This may do for a light eater—but in the ease of a man with a robust appetite there would seem to be danger of contributing an additional pane in the stomach.

According to the Moody bill, now a law which goes into effect May 6th, criminal prosecution may be brought on information made by the district attorney. Practically it is an experiment in the line of doing away with the old-time system of star chamber trials by expensive grand juries.

When Prineville business people take a tumble and learn that they can reach that point 24 hours from Portland via Moro and the CSRy and stages, they may wake up and dust the cobwebs from their eyes, in realization of some facts they do not at present seem to even dream of.

On a small lake near Hood River, during the ice cutting season of the past winter, gas was discovered escaping from holes it had thawed in the ice. Lighted the gas would burn for an hour at a time. Ross Winans, noted for his pluck and energy, is now there equipped and boring for natural gas.

Numerous eastern cattle buyers in Portland are sending out tempting offers to our local buyers with contracts to be filled for delivery at Arlington. As the CSRy will build ample stock yards in Moro, and are prepared to offer rates on shipments equal with Arlington, at least one of our local buyers, D.W.Huff, has notified his correspondents of his decided preference for this as the shipping point.

JUDGE DAY REWARDED.

The Observer is pleased with Mr. McKinleys' decision that Judge Days services to the goverment were as much deserving of reward as those of any one who, like Dewey, Hobson, et. al., have earned honors. It seems Providential that in every emergency in this country the men "for the occasion" are soon found. They may be comparatively obscure before, and such is usually the case, but by some discernment of the people, or those whom they invest with authority, the right leaders are singled out for every serious crisis. Such was the case in the days of Washington, Lincoln, Grant, McKinley.

In the present instance, note the special Providences of 1898, incident to events involving new and difficult questions. Judge William R. Day, as secretary of state, then as chairman of the peace commission in Paris, made a record proving that a man of singular high ability in statesmanship had been discovered. The services he rendered to the people won their admiring appreciation and he will be a historical figure in the annals of the conflict with Spain. It was not until he had been at the head of affairs for more than 60 days that Mr. McKinley asked him to assume the labors of assistant secretary of state. Judge Day had been selected to make a special investigation in Cuba, but the President felt the need in the cabinet of his calm and judicial qualities, along with his vigorous power of concentration and clear insight.

It is needless to mention the date when Judge Day was officially installed as secretary of state—he had been such virtually, long before the destruction of the Maine. It was he who handled the episode of the De Lome letter, the correspondence on the Maine, and the incidents of the intense strain preceding the war. After hostilities began there were delicate relations with European powers to handle. The protocol is a monument to Judge Day's acumen and his work in negotiating the treaty was of the same striking order. He made no mistakes—every American demand was conceded. There was no awkward complications. With the skill of a perfect pilot he conducted his labors without a jar or an error.

President McKinley was criticised for calling this "country lawyer" to the head of the cabinet, but the result not only shows that he made the best choice, but that he possesses in a rare degree the power of judging the capacities of men. Judge Day is not a politician—no seeker of office. He resigned the position of United States judge to look after his private practice. He resigned the position of secretary of state when the defeat of Spain was assured. From first to last he conducted his duties without friction—always cool, discreet, courteous comprehensive in grasp, clear in perception, and calmly master of the situation.

He had weighty dealings with the Spanish ministers, the French intermediary and the embassadors of Europe, and in every case fully asserted the rights and dignity of this country without giving cause for offense. Though unschooled in diplomacy he was more than a match for the subtlest diplomatists of the time. He is a highly trained lawyer, as his father was before him, but his conspicuous success in a stormy period, is largely due to the genius of common sense, to the tested metal of strong, through unobtrusive, character—and to earnest patriotism.

It has been judicially determined by the Supreme court of New York that a boy 16 years old ought to have an allowance of $4,500 a year to defray his expenses in college. Richard Delafield Shipman, a wealthy orphan whose money is held in trust, has been receiving an alowance of $2,000 a year, until last fall when he entered Harvard. He applied for an increase and submitted an itemized estimate of his necessary expenses as follows: Tuition $500, clothing $500, books and stationery $15, board and lodging $1,200, traveling expenses $750, personal expenses $850, miscellaneous 1,000. The court did not inquire into the nature of the extravagance in the matter of books but issued an order upon the executors of the estate to increase the youngsters allowance as requested.

Admiral Dewey started in to protect our shipping on the Pacific, and the administration has backed him in making a permanent job of it. The Mediterranean served the ancient world. The Atlantic has served the modern world up to our time. But the coming events,as the world grows larger, will be the greatest in its drama and must have the largest stage for their enactment, the broad Pacific. It is now settled that no combination in other continents will ever close the Pacific against men of business in the Uniied States—notably those of the coast states.

Jobbers and speculators have much to say respecting a small promised advance in wages amongst the trusts to occur on All Fools' Day, which their organs say "will benefit 25,000 workmen," but reverently omit to mention a word about the combinations advances on everything from a neck-tie to a barbed wire fence. Do they still imagine that the farmers and consumers of this country are a lot of fools who have no rights which the combinations are bound to respect. The days of retribut'on approach.

Sunday The O. Man plucked up courage and walked among The Observer trees and vines in Moro. It did him good to see how they have seemingly just kept on growing all through the winter months. And the fat hens! no wonder we don't get more eggs. They have done a good work in the orchard and having earned their grub now enjoy life dusting in the light warm mold with a most appreciative cackel.

The winter just past in Sherman county was not so very aweful after all. Some plowing was done every month. We had in all 23 'billious' days; 5 in December, 7 in January 10 in February—9 of these might be classified as 'real cold.' Thermometer dropped below zero 5 nights, the coldest was 11° below.

There is something phenominal in the sudden popularity of Rudyard Kipling. Only Byron and Dickens in our century have achieved an equal marked success. To what is that success due? In some degree, doubtless, to the freshness of his theme. He has unveiled India.

TELL A WOMAN BY HER PURSE.

Things That Nearly Always Indicate Owner's Character and Condition.

It has been stated, perhaps by detectives, that the age and a great knowledge of the whole character of a woman can be gained from the contents of her pocketbook, says the Chicago Times-Herald.

The business woman always has a number of receipted bills and a quantity of cash in her pocketbook, while the mother of a family usually has many unreceipted bills, little cash, and the sides bursting with samples and bargain advertisements. The average young lady has a favorite poem stowed away in a corner and invariably a souvenir of something bordering on the superstitious. For instance, while the writer was in a State street jeweler's store the other morning a tortoise shell portmonnaie was found on the floor. It contained 85 cents, and, far back in a secret pocket, a poem entitled "Soul for Soul." It began:

Oh, eyes that pierce me through and through
And draw my very soul away,
Your sunshine may not fill my life
Nor turn my darkness into day.

Next to that piece of sentiment was a small card with the young lady's name and weight printed upon it. On the reverse side of the card was a date with the words: "If the sun shines three days after this, you will have good luck for nine days." About noontime, a beautiful little brunette, all anxiety and blushes, hurried in to claim the purse.

ASK YOUR DOCTOR!

Ask your physician this question, "What is the one great remedy for consumption?" He will answer, "Cod-liver oil." Nine out of ten will answer the same way.

Yet when persons have consumption they loathe all fatty foods, yet fat is necessary for their recovery and they cannot take plain cod-liver oil. The plain oil disturbs the stomach and takes away the appetite. The disagreeable fishy odor and taste make it almost unendurable. What is to be done?

This question was answered when we first made of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Although that was nearly twenty-five years ago, yet it stands alone today the one great remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs.

The bad taste and odor have been taken away, the oil itself has been partly digested, and the most sensitive stomach objects to it rarely. Not one in ten can take and digest the plain oil. Nine out of ten can take SCOTT'S EMULSION and digest it. That's why it cures so many cases of early consumption. Even in advanced cases it brings comfort and greatly prolongs life.

WOMEN AS SHOEBLACKS.

They Are Numerous in France and Some Have Married Rich Customers.

A custom is rapidly gaining ground in France, and especially in Toulon and certain other towns, which, it may safely be prophesied, will not find much imitation in this country. This is the employment of women as street shoeblacks.

The French women shoeblacks are most coquettishly gotten up, and as to their caps and frills have somewhat the appearance of hospital nurses, and it is surprising that though their occupation is a tolerably dirty one, they always seem clean and tidy; some of them are doing the polishing in gauntlet gloves.

In the towns in which they are employed they certainly are a success pecuniarily, especially where English and American visitors, who generally seem to treat the whole affair as a good joke, are numerous.

It is said that one reason for the occupation being a popular one among women of a certain grade in life is that many of the fair polishers have married opulent customers who have been impressed by their shining qualities.

Exercises That Keep Athletic Girls Abreast of Their Brothers.

The fad for fencing at home has led many a girl to set up in the privacy of her father's residence a private gymnasium, or, as she prefers to dub it, an "armory," where she practices with the aid of an instructor and in company with a few of her intimate friends, says an eastern exchange.

Many a girl can do her trick on the flying rings or the parallel bar in a manner that makes her college-bred brother hustle for his laurels. And he'll have to hustle still more when the glorious May days come and she can show the result of her secret training on the golf links and the tennis court.

The Vassar girls and students at other of the famous women colleges and co-educational institutions have established gymnasium classes and are hard at work preparing for the coming summer. The Wellesley girls train with a special view of developing the muscles, necessary to become expert at the oars, and their famous fours and eights are expected to beat all records this season.

Bowling has its devotees, and many of the fair sex have proved themselves experts on the alleys.

The most usual place for practicing bowling is at some of the large athletic clubs, which generally have one day in the week, known as "ladies' day."

FOOD FOR ROACHES.

Bugs Which Eat the Gum from the Backs of Postage Stamps.

"I want to tell you," said a man the other day to a New York Tribune man, "about the way in which I was cured of the habit of 'licking' postage stamps when I wished to apply one to a letter. I always kept a few stamps in my desk, and several times when I took one out I observed that the gum was entirely gone from the back of all the stamps, or at least they were bare in patches. Very often it became necessary to apply fresh gum before the stamps would stick to the envelope. I became quite irritated on several occasions when I was in a hurry and spoke my mind freely about a government which could not afford to put gum which would not 'evaporate' on its postage stamps.

"One day, after coming from the post office, I put a dozen stamps in my desk and closed the lid. Then I went away and returned an hour or so afterward. Upon opening my desk I saw upon these stamps at least a dozen big, nasty-looking roaches, or water bugs. They seemed to be so intent upon some occupation that they did not run away with the almost lightning-like rapidity with which they usually disappeared whenever the desk was opened.

"At first I thought that they were stuck to the stamps, but upon observing a little closer, I saw that they moved about, and I was finally convinced that they were eating the gum from the backs of the stamps. By placing a large reading glass so as to magnify the roaches, I observed that they secreted a saliva on the gum and when it became soft they seemed to suck it off. Little bare spots appeared on the stamps, and these spots gradually grew larger, until the stamps had the appearance of those from which I had imagined the gum had evaporated. I must have watched the roaches at work for a half hour, and at the end of that time they had removed nearly all the gum from the stamps. Then they went away, presumably in search of richer fields.

"Since that time, you may be sure, I never touch my tongue to a postage stamp, and it almost nauseates me to see anyone else do it."
