In the days when five shined it was written that motherhood should be hereafter be accompanied with pain and sorrow, but this came upon our forefathers has been lightened more and more as mankind has advanced, and we have learned to rise superior to many of their sins and mistakes.

One of the greatest agencies which enlightened Science has discovered to relieve motherhood from excessive suffering is the "Favorite Prescription" devised by Dr. J. C. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. This wonderful "Prescription" imbues the entire nervous system with natural, healthy vitality; gives elastic vigor to the delicate organism; specially concerned in motherhood; renders the prospective mother strong and cheerful and makes the carrying of baby entirely free from danger and almost free from pain.

The delighted gratitude of Mrs. Pearl Walton, of Alvo, Cass Co., Neb., will find an echo in the heart of every expectant mother.

"Previous to the birth of my child," writes Mrs. Walton, "I had no appetite, was sick as my stomach, had headache, could not rest at night, was completely worn out in every way. I consulted with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and began to improve right away. I used two boxes. At the time of confinement I was in labor but a little while and I owe it all to that great remedy—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure constipation."

Loss Will be Small. Damage to the Grain Crop was Materially Overestimated.

The above headlines in the Oregonian of the 29th reminds us of an old poem—

A farmer came in to his dinner one day Very tired—dismourning and sad— There was smut on the wheat, and the crop wouldn't grow— And everything turning out bad.

"Well, Mary?" said he unto his good wife, "I know not whatever 'it' is do— 'I've planted and sowed, but the things will not grow—"

"I can't think how to manage. Can you?" She gave him a smile, as she turned from her work.

"Don't you had her trials and woes— 'She'll be so sad, John; the lane may soon turn— And things be alright. Who knows?'"

Weeks had passed by, and the harvest was over— And the barn running over with grain— And everything growing so beautifully now— For there had been bountiful rain.

When the farmer came in to his dinner that day— His face was so bonny and bright— "O, Mary, our wheat has turned out so well, And the corn is a beautiful sight!"

She looked at him then, with a smile on her face— "Now, John, let me say to you this— 'It will not wait till the harvest is over, We must have a harvest-side will ours—"

And 'tis not only this in the work-a-day world— But in most other things may be so, If we only can wait to see the outcome, There may be no need for our woe.
