60000 names added to the rolls by 11; today we have 420,912 invalids under that and 120,000 widows, making a total of over 540,000. It made some computations as to what it would cost to pay service pensions of $16 a month to each figure all who were less than 65, as well as paying that sum to many who now get nothing. It would cost about $67,000,000 a year. At $12 a month it would be less proportionally, because the number that would be eligible would be smaller. The Mexican war service pension was only $5 a month.

In these computations Commissioner Evans evidently contemplates a service pension as a future possibility on the basis of evening up, paying it only to those who are now at 65, and not under the present law get less than the service pension figure. Unfortunately this is not the policy of the Union Veteran League, and their will come the tug of war. Its resolutions concerning the proposed per diem pension ask that the government shall be in addition to invalid pension which have or may be hereafter granted for injuries received or disease contracted in the line of duty in the service.

If congress should take up any such subject as this, a per diem in addition to the present law, and the government will come the tug of war. Its resolutions concerning the proposed per diem pension ask that the government shall be in addition to invalid pension which have or may be hereafter granted for injuries received or disease contracted in the line of duty in the service.
